Doomed Berlin Encircled By Mighty Red Armies

By ROMNEY WHEELER.

LONDON, April 26.—(AP)—Doomed Berlin was completely encircled today by two mighty Russian armies, Marshal Stalin announced in a historic order of the day, and the German radio admitted that Russian storm troops had slashed through jungles of twisted steel and stone to the blazing heart of the Nazi capital. The Nazis reported that massed Soviet forces, nearing a link-up with American troops, had swept up to the Elbe river southwest of Berlin on a 24-mile front. Perhaps 500,000 German troops were trapped in the encirclement of Berlin and these forces rapidly were being overwhelmed in a fantastic, incredible battle that raged with increasing fury above and below ground.

There was a possibility that Hitler and his Propaganda Minister Goebbels had been caught in the Red army trap. Throughout the evening the Hamburg radio principal Nazi station remaining in operation—began every news item with the slogan: "The Fuehrer is in Berlin."

Our order of the day was not to fire on American troops, but

LONDON, April 25.—(AP)—The Daily Mail said today "It is understood that the Russians have requested that the formal three-power announcement of a jointing of forces (with the Americans) not be made until the occupation of Berlin is completed."

only to fire east toward the Russians," said one German soldier among the masses giving up and marching back across "no man's land" without guards.

Stalin, in a second order of the day, announced the capture of the East Prussian port of Pillau, last Nazi stronghold on the East Prussian mainland. The port fell to Marshal Alexander M. Vasilevsky's Third White Russian Army.

BERLIN'S CENTER

The Hamburg broadcast said that Red army forces which reached Berlin's center had been "half" by German counterattacks as the fighting raged back and forth in Berlin's suburbs and sewers. On the surface Russian armor beat toward Unter den Linden, heart of Hitler's dying Third Reich.

The Moscow radio meanwhile announced that nearly 2,000,000 German troops had been killed or captured on the eastern front since Jan. 1, raising to more than 11,000,000 the vast toll of German casualties exacted by the Red army in nearly four years of war.

With Berlin already more than half in Russian hands, the capital was encircled in swift drives around its western outskirts by Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov's First White Russian Army and the First Ukrainian Army of Marshal Ivan S. Konev.

REDS CROSS ELBE

Zhukov's army smashed south from Nauen when Konev's troops lunged northward past the great suburb of Potsdam. The outlying suburbs of Bohren, Marquardt, Ketzin and Elsthal were seized and the two armies linked, cutting off Berlin's escape roads. The dramatic encirclement apparently ended all possibility of further German reinforcements reaching the trapped Berlin garrison.

The encirclement of the great prize of Berlin came three years and 10 months after Hitler's legions attacked the Russians June 22, 1941.

Moscow announced that Russian troops had crossed the Elbe river northwest of Dresden, presumably

World Union or Chaos, Truman Warns Envoys

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—(AP)—President Truman opened a conference of statesmen of 48 United Nations today and solemnly dedicated them to the task of forging a permanent peace, to becoming "the architects of a better world."

In a single, succinct sentence the President brought sharply into focus the challenging opportunity confronting them:

"We still have a choice between the continuation of international chaos—or the establishment of a world organization for the enforcement of peace."

Into an impressive stone building, whose flag flew at half staff in honor of the late President Roosevelt, the voice of his successor was brought from Washington to launch one of history's great international meetings.

Other voices were raised in expressions of confidence and hope—the hope of a world scourged for years by bursting steel—that delegates from many lands will weld their polyglot tongues into one mighty voice for enduring tranquility among nations.

The delegates themselves in San Francisco's war memorial opera house appeared grimly determined to succeed.

Prospects for success seemed bright—save for serious Anglo-American differences with Russia over a new Polish government and United Nations councils. And there were the inevitable comments

U.S., French Dashing to Alpine Hills

400,000 Men Drive Unhalted on Nazis' 'Southern Redoubt'

By ROBERT EUNSON.

PARIS, Thursday, April 26.—(AP)—U. S. Third Army tanks punched within 15 miles of the German-Austrian border last night as other American and French forces raced almost unchecked across southern Germany, threatening Munich and Hitler's Berchtesgaden retreat, which the RAF attacked yesterday with 12,000-pound "earthquake" bombs.

The Third Army spearhead, already east of Berlin, although 250 miles to the south, cut the last direct route to the Nazis' so-called

LONDON, April 25.—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Heinrich Kirchheim in a Luxembourg radio broadcast tonight appealed to the German high command to "make the Fuehrer cease fighting at once" because "the war is irrevocably lost." He was the first high-ranking German officer captured by the Americans to make such an appeal.

He directed his remarks to Chief of Staff Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, but privately admitted he thought the effect "very doubtful."

national redoubt by mopping up the rail and highway center of Regensburg and then drove straight for the frontier of Austria at Passau. This column was 76 miles north of Berchtesgaden.

To the west the American Seventh Army broke through German positions and fanned out on an 80-mile front along or across the Danube river within 45 miles of Munich and the French First Army completely smashed Germany's veteran 19th army in the Black Forest.

200-MILE FRONT
The Allied armies—estimated at nearly 400,000 men and thousands of tanks—were charging into the Alpine foothills along a 200-mile front in a determined effort to crush the last-ditch Nazi stand in the southern redoubt before it could get well started.

Resistance at most points was extremely light, bearing out an official announcement from Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters that "the German army has ceased to exist as an integrated fighting force." An Associated Press field dispatch declared that the encirclement of Munich, birthplace of the Nazi party, was shaping up swiftly.

Joining in the giant squeeze on the enemy's vaguely defined southern redoubt were Russian forces hammering westward across Austria last reported within 90 miles of Berchtesgaden.

Closest to Munich was the 12th Armored Division of Lt. Gen. Patch's Seventh Army, which plunged to a point eight miles south of Dillingen and seized a five-mile strip of a superhighway leading to Munich 45 miles to the southeast.

Advancing Russians Free Edouard Herriot

LONDON, April 25.—(AP)—Portly Edouard Herriot, three times premier of France, who was thrown into a German concentration camp in 1942 after criticizing Marshal Petain's collaboration policies, has been liberated by the Russians, the Soviet communiqué announced tonight. No details were given of the liberation of the 72-year-old head of the French Radical Socialists who was serving as president of the chamber of deputies in the Vichy government when his blunt protest at a decree by Pierre Laval was followed by announcement of his arrest.

Son of a poor policeman, Herriot was elected mayor of the industrial city of Lyons at 33 and has held the post continuously since, being last re-elected in absentia in September, 1944.

He first became premier of France in 1924. He again held the reins for one day in July, 1926. Back in power in 1932 he defied French sentiment by insisting on payment of the French war debt installment due the United States as a result was swept out of office.

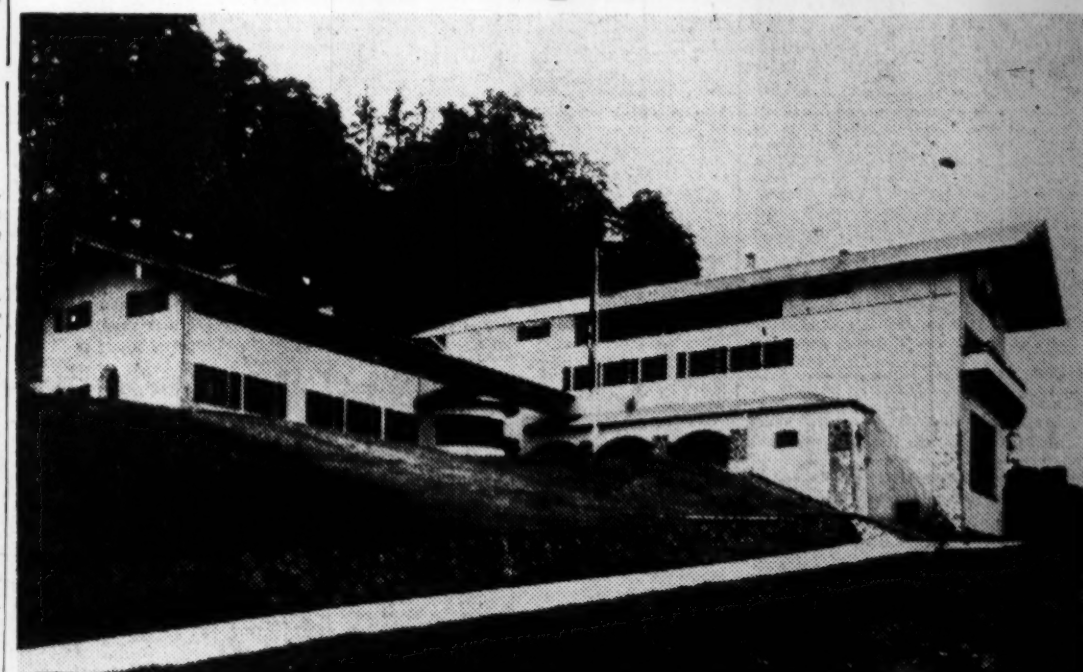

As president of the chamber of deputies, he criticized both Hitler and the Russians. He followed the French government into unoccupied France and continued to battle against collaboration with the Nazis.

After his arrest Oct. 2, 1942, he was first placed under residential surveillance and then reported removed to Germany in May, 1943. Subsequent reports were that he was in a sanatorium in Nancy, dying in Paris and last—on Feb. 5 of this year—alive in a German detention camp.

American Superfortress fliers, returning to their Marianas bases after raiding the Tokyo area Tuesday, Japanese time, said the great Hitachi aircraft engine plant was "blown all to pieces" and that big fires raged in the target area.

The British drive into Burma's rich oil field area was marked by the capture of two strategic towns along the Irrawaddy river.

Pilsen Skoda Munitions Works Smashed by 300 U. S. 'Forts'

CHALET NO MORE—Vengeful RAF Lancasters destroyed Hitler's once-proud chalet at Berchtesgaden yesterday with a direct hit by a 12,000-pound earthquake bomb and rained bombs on his "Eagle's Nest" fortress atop Kehlstein mountain, five miles away.

Organized Battle To End In Europe June 1--Truman

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(UP)—President Truman believes that organized warfare in Europe probably will be over by June 1 and that German last-ditch pocket resistance will be cleaned up by July 4. Rep. J. Buell Snyder, Democrat, Pennsylvania, revealed today.

Snyder, one of 21 White House callers, told the United Press after a talk with the President that favorable progress of the European war may permit a $10,000,000,000 reduction in Army appropriations for the fiscal year beginning July 1. He is chairman of the House War Department Appropriations Subcommittee.

War Production Chairman J. A. Krug told a house committee, meanwhile, that almost one-third of WPB's 100-odd controls will be abolished in the next three or four months and that he hopes all can be done away at the end of the Japanese war.

MUNITIONS SLASH
Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson disclosed that Army orders for certain important munitions will be cut during the next 30 to 60 days. He specified artillery and mortar ammunition.

Major elements of both the U. S. and British armies have been able by the swift Allied advances in Europe.

"The adjustments will be substantial for some items," Patterson told a press conference, "and the reductions were made possible by the swift Allied advances in Europe."

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation announced, meanwhile, that government-owned machine tools and production equipment from now on will be made available to industry as fast as they are declared surplus. RFC said the U. S. Navy have removed all restrictions on sales.

Brig. Gen. David N. Hausman, director of the Army service forces readjustment division, told a senate subcommittee on surplus property disposal that within two months after V-E Day the War Department expects to release 12,020 general purpose and 3,000 special purpose tools.

NO SACRIFICE OF MEN
Snyder predicted the dates for the end of European hostilities and said that Mr. Truman agreed with him. Snyder added that the war could be over even sooner, but that the U. S. high command intends to blast out enemy pockets with artillery and aircraft instead of sacrificing men.

"We could have it all over by May 20 or June 1, if we wanted to run our men into those dangerous pockets," he said.

He "hoped and prayed" the Pacific war will be over in nine months or a year, but cautioned that the nation should be prepared for two or three more years of fighting before Japan is crushed.

He said that because of favorable progress in Europe his committee will delay until May 10 the start of hearings on War Department appropriations for fiscal 1946. He believed that this year's $49,000,000,000 grant may be pared to $39,000,000,000.

"Every day the war in Europe is shortened saves us $200,000,000," Snyder said.

6-Ton Bomb Puts End To Berghof

Berchtesgaden Chalet Levelled by Armada Of 350 Lancasters

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN.

LONDON, Thursday, April 26.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's chalet near Berchtesgaden was obliterated and the adjoining "Eagle's Nest" fortress was damaged yesterday by more than 350 RAF heavy Lancasters which raided the mountain retreat for the first time in an apparent attempt on the Fuehrer's life.

The big barracks of Hitler's bodyguard, munitions stores and the whole fabulous establishment from which the Nazi overlord once ruled German Europe were smashed by the six-ton British bombs while American Eighth and Ninth Air Force planes by the hundreds ravaged selected targets throughout the Berchtesgaden area.

WHERE IS HITLER?

Simultaneously the "Eighth Air Force hurled more than 300 Flying Fortresses at the Skoda Munitions Works at Pilsen, Czechoslovakia, advertising the devastating attack in advance with a radio warning to slave laborers to flee from that last great Nazi war plant.

Whether Hitler was at the sumptuous Berghof chalet or inside the almost-impenetrable Kehlstein fortress was not known, but returning fliers left no doubt that the "two-story chalet had been wiped off the face of the earth by a direct hit of a 12,000-pound bomb, and said delayed-action bombs of the same weight had buried themselves deep in the Kehlstein (Hollow-Steep) mountain of the Eagle's Nest.

FAVORITE RETREAT
The nest itself, with a roof 17 yards above protruding above the mountain peak, apparently was straddled, but not squarely hit.

German radio propagandists insisted that Hitler was inside encircled Berlin, directing its wild defense, but reports from many parts of Europe lent support to the story he had taken refuge at the Berchtesgaden retreat to which for years he had summoned the heads of states who were his selected dupes to hear his bidding.

There he overruled and seized Kurt Schuschnigg, last premier of Austria, before the Anschluss; there he convinced the late British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain that "peace in our time" had been established; and there during the war years he received his trembling victims or bootlicking subordinates from Scandinavia to the Balkans.

PSYCHOLOGICAL RAID
There Hitler started through wide picture-windows across at his native Austria while almost literally sitting atop the powder-kegs he had stored there in the heart of his vaulted last redoubt for the death-strand of Nazism.

Why such a shining target had never been bombed before remained officially without explanation, but an RAF staff officer said unofficially today, "with the fall of Berlin in mind, Berchtesgaden is looked upon as a sort of Nazi capital—the last spot over which the swastika will fly."

"Thus the bombing at this time

250 B-29s Hit Jap Homeland; Death Ratio 19 to 1 on Okinawa

By The Associated Press.

A mighty force of 200 to 250 Superfortresses bombed airfields on the Japanese home islands of Kyushu and Shikoku this morning (Guam time), dropping their explosives from medium altitude in poor bombing weather. The strike, aimed at bases from which the Japanese have staged air attacks on American ground positions and shipping at Okinawa, marked the first B-29 raid on Shikoku. The attack was aimed at 11 air bases.

American doughboys, killing 19 Japanese for every GI, have scored general gains on Okinawa island, southern gateway to the Nippon homeland, Fleet Adm. Nimitz reported late yesterday.

The GIs hit the center of the roaring line to capture the town of Kakazu. On the left flank they took a strong position on Hill 178. Japanese defenses were being reduced as the Americans advanced in the Yonabaru sector on the east coast. Naval guns and Marine fliers aided ground forces. The fierce fight for this strategic island only 325 miles south of their homeland was indicated in casualty figures, Nimitz announced. Up to the morning of April 25, Okinawa time, 21,269 Japanese had been killed and 399 captured. American casualties up to the close of April 22 totaled 7,424 soldiers and Marines—1,146 killed, 5,982 wounded and 296 missing.

The figures concerned only ground fighting, however. Adm. Nimitz announced American naval casualties of 4,700, including 989 dead, a week ago.

Guerrilla forces in the Philippines, with U. S. air support, improved their hold on the northwestern coast of Luzon as they practically cleared the Japanese out of Ilocos Sur province. ## Allies Levy Heavy Toll on Nazis Racing To Pull Forces Into Alps

ROME, April 25.—(AP)—Allied armored spearheads, fanning out north of the Po river, raced within 25 miles of the Alps today as the Germans struggled desperately to pull their shattered divisions into the southern end of Hitler's "mountainous redoubt."

The Germans were suffering heavy losses in men and material as Allied warplanes strafed and bombed the fleeing columns and swift moving tank forces trapped and annihilated enemy pockets.

Major elements of both the U. S. Fifth Army and the British Eighth Army were across the river and were reported speeding north in an effort to overtake and destroy the Germans before they can pull into the Alps.

In addition to the casualties the Germans have lost more than 1,000 vehicles from Allied bombing and strafing attacks during the past week.

The first Allied bridgehead across the Po was established by mopping up by-passed German forces.

At the start of the Allied offensive two weeks ago it was estimated the Germans had 25 divisions in northern Italy, plus several Italian Fascist units. On the basis of Nazi organization in the past year that probably meant a total of 150,000 men.

Up to yesterday the Allies had taken 40,000 prisoners—25,000 by the Fifth Army alone—and in addition the Germans have suffered heavily in killed and wounded.

On the basis of this it appears that the Germans will be lucky if they can get half of their original force into the Alps.

The French cruiser Montcalm bombarded the Enn Remo harbor, and the British destroyer Lookout also was reported in action.

U. S. and French patrol boats sank small German auxiliary boats.

expenditures for the current year. He predicted that V-E Day will require a vast readjustment of equipment needs to conform to plans for all-out war against Japan. Krug told the House Postwar Economic Policy Committee that his hope for abandonment of all production controls after V-E Day was not definite assurance because the situation is flexible. But he added:

"During the phase between now and the end of the Japanese war I think we can get our economy around so that at the end of the war with Japan our controls can be released."

TEXTILE CONTROLS
Items which must be controlled until the end of the Japanese war, he said, include textiles, lumber, forest products, pulp, tin and possibly lead and certain chemicals. He reported that WPB already has granted priorities on critical items needed by 72 industries to prepare for rapid transition to peace-time production. He said those industries have been given the help needed to start minimum production.

Woman Slain In Parked Car; Husband Held

With a bullet wound in her chest, pretty Mrs. Gertrude Hunter, 24, of 489 Cameron street, S. E., died while en route to Grady hospital, and her husband, Frank Hunter, 26, a painting contractor, was taken into custody at the hospital by Patrolman C. F. Preston.

Mrs. Hunter, Detectives J. E. Helms and W. M. Holland reported, was shot while sitting in an automobile with her husband late yesterday afternoon. The car, the detectives said, was in a service station at Georgia avenue and Washington street.

After questioning Hunter, detectives docketed charges of suspicion of murder against him. In a written report, the detectives said there were several discrepancies in Hunter's statement about the manner in which his wife was shot.

Detectives quoted him as first saying Mrs. Hunter had driven into the service station; that the revolver, an Army .45, was on the seat between them, and that when he picked it up to unload it, Mrs. Hunter grabbed the gun and it was discharged; at another time, he said, Hunter claimed he and Mrs. Hunter were scuffling for possession of the revolver when it was discharged, and in a third statement, officers said Hunter told them the gun was in his hands at the time it was discharged.

"The position in which the bullet entered the body leads us to believe the gun was not in Mrs. Hunter's hands at the time it was discharged," the detectives said in their report.

Hunter, who with his wife only recently moved from Athens to Atlanta, also said, the detectives reported, that he and Mrs. Hunter were quarreling over who was going to drive the automobile. He said she had driven into the service station and had refused to let him drive the car.

Mrs. Eula Ray, mother of Hunter, said she knew of no domestic trouble between the couple. "That boy loved her better than life," she said.

Mrs. Ray said last night that her son had called her from police station and said that he did not have anything to live for. "It was an accident," she quoted him as saying, and "the gun was lying on the seat and she picked it up."

Mrs. Ray, with a daughter, Josephine Ray, 11, lived with the Hunters.

Remaining Pen Mutiny Charges Dropped by U. S.

U. S. Atty. M. Neil Andrews yesterday filed an order of habeas corpus in the remaining cases against six U. S. penitentiary inmates involved in the mutiny of Dec. 4-7.

Dismissal of the pending cases followed the conviction Friday of Richard Myles, Jack Adams and George Hollingsworth and the acquittal of James Douglas, Myron Hinds and William Sanders on a charge of conspiracy to mutiny. The charges dismissed include individual indictments against Myles, Adams and Hollingsworth, charging them with assaulting penitentiary guards, and an indictment against all six inmates on a charge of mutiny.

Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood will pass sentence tomorrow on the three inmates convicted of conspiracy.

Surviving, in addition to Mrs. Asbury, are two sisters, Mrs. George Logan, of Atlanta, and Mrs. John Weems, of Jacksonville, Fla., and two brothers, Norton and C. D. Asbury, of Atlanta.

Born in Woodland, Ga., Mr. Asbury moved to Atlanta with his parents when he was a child. He formerly was engaged in the automobile business here.

Promotions Voted For Jap Prisoners

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP) The senate voted today to promote enlisted men and most officers of the armed forces who were in the Pacific Dec. 8, 1941, and now are Japanese prisoners. The bill goes to the house.

Advancement by a grade in rank would be given dating back to Dec. 8, 1942, with an additional grade for every succeeding year. The Army and Navy had opposed the measure by Sen. Chavez, Democrat, New Mexico, on the ground that promotions should be based on individual merit.

Mrs. Clara Elizabeth Fain Fishback, 84, of 1678 Mozley drive, S. W., pioneer resident, died yesterday at her home.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. today at the Calvary Methodist church, with the Rev. T. M. Sullivan officiating. Burial will be in West View under the direction of Awtry & Lowndes.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. W. R. Thomason, of Palmetto, and Miss Tullie Fishback, of Atlanta; two sons, Sam and O. T. Fishback, both of Atlanta, and a grandson, Lt. W. S. Fishback, of the Arm Air Corps, stationed at Selman Field, La.

Born in Jacksonville, Ala., she came with her parents to Atlanta from Floyd Springs, Ga., as a child. Her husband, William Thomas Fishback, was connected with the Beutell Manufacturing Company prior to his death in 1937. Mrs. Fishback was a charter member of the Calvary Methodist church.

were less than 10 miles from Augsburg as additional American power poured into the bridgehead, now eight miles deep and 35 miles wide. The superhighway was cut near Burgau. Endless convoys churned up clouds of white dust as they thundered toward the front.

At the southeastern edge of the bridgehead, about 14 miles northwest of Augsburg, tankmen and infantry of the Third Division were meeting stiff resistance, but for the most part the Nazis were fighting hard only for occasional towns and villages. The 44th Division forced two crossings of the Iller canal south of Ulm, near Vorringen and Illertissen.

REGENSBURG BATTLE
The fast-traveling U. S. Third Army on the east had smashed within 55 miles of Munich and was fighting into both the northern and western outskirts of the big communications center of Regensburg.

The 11th Armored Division, leading Patton's spectacular dash toward the blue hills of Austria, was 105 miles from the last reported position of Red Army troops advancing west of Vienna. A junction of the two forces would turn all of Czechoslovakia into a giant trap and probably lead to the annihilation of more German troops than the Ruhr pocket yielded.

Another 11th armored column drove six miles northeast of Regensburg.

gen and captured the town of Zweisel. The Third Army still was cloaked in a partial news blackout and possibly was well beyond its indicated positions. It already had severed most rail and highway routes between Czechoslovakia and southern Germany.

British Second Army troops fought forward bitterly for another day through the suburbs of the northern port of Bremen. Field Marshal Montgomery had committed four crack armored and infantry divisions to the assault.

CANADIANS NEAR EMDEN
Canadian troops drove within four miles of the naval base of Emden as German forces, in the port turned naval guns against the opposite bank of the Ems estuary. The Canadians still were west of the Ems river opposite Emden, and it was difficult to see how they could assault Emden without making an amphibious operation.

A field dispatch said it was considered possible that Hitler and other Nazi high-ups might intend to use either Emden or Wilhelmshaven for a getaway by sea. Both ports still are in working order, though badly damaged.

Allied headquarters still awaited an official announcement that American and Russian forces had formed a junction south of Berlin. A dispatch said the U. S. 69th Infantry Division on the Elbe had decorated its most comfortable chair with Russian and American colors and had marked it "Reserved for the liaison officer of the USSR." It still was unoccupied.

Legion Post Blasts Film Union For Refusing To Train Hurt Vets

A strongly worded resolution, condemning the Motion Picture Operators' Union, IATSE, Local 225, for refusing to co-operate with the Veterans' Administration in training wounded veterans in this line of work because "it was a violation of its international" and because "a city ordinance forbids them to undertake this type training," has been passed by the American Legion Post 51 of East Point.

This action was taken after the Veterans' Administration had sent two honorably discharged veterans—both with serious physical handicaps which would prevent their doing manual labor—into the booths of two downtown theaters for the purpose of learning this trade, it was pointed out by Fred Coleman, owner and operator of several theaters in East Point and College Park.

NO SUCH ORDINANCE

In this instance the veteran, who had chosen this type of work upon being discharged from the service, was told, Coleman said, that a city ordinance "would not permit it" or that their union would not "put up with it." But it was later pointed out by city officials, who preferred to remain anonymous, that there existed no such ordinance and the veterans were free to take up this type training if the union men saw fit to train them.

Coleman said that each veteran was given a letter of introduction from the Veterans' Administration stipulating that he would be subject to union rules when he had finished his training. Coleman added that one of the trainees, C. E. Smallwood, "was kept at the Sylvan theater one day with no answer and he attended a meeting in Union Hall in which he was berated and they told him to go find another means of employment. They made it plain they would give him no consideration whatsoever."

JENKINS' STATEMENT

In the case of George E. Dennis, a wounded veteran who had expressed a desire to enter this field of endeavor, W. K. Jenkins, president of Georgia Theaters, wrote S. H. Autry, operator at the Roxy theater, which is under Jenkins' supervision, "I am very anxious to be of service to any discharged veteran. Therefore, I am writing this letter to you to ask that you and the other operators in the booth at the Roxy theater co-operate to teach Mr. Dennis the trade he seeks to learn. It is a pleasure to me to make available the physical facilities and I am sure that you and your associates and all the other members of your union will co-operate."

But, after Dennis had spent a few hours in the booth of the Roxy, Coleman said, he was told "to scram," by the union men.

The training of veterans in the art of operating a motion picture projection machine in theaters is part of a nation-wide program to train and equip wounded veterans to fill jobs for which they are best suited. A group of the city's larger theaters have expressed a willingness to take part in this program, but Coleman pointed out that "the theaters which employ union operators, are powerless to do anything unless the union agrees, and it appears we don't have that co-operation."

WORK SUITED FOR VETS

In a letter to Charles H. Robson, of the Veterans' Administration, Coleman said that this type work is especially suited to wounded veterans—especially the men who have lost a leg or an arm—since it requires no hard physical labor and a man can remain seated a great part of the time while operating a projection machine. This work pays from $30 a week in small towns to $100 a week in the larger cities.

Coleman further stated that the veterans would not constitute any threat to the union since all contracts state clearly that only union operators can operate the machines. Each union operator is licensed by the city and these licenses are available to all competent persons who pass an examination given by the city's examining board.

PASSED UNANIMOUSLY

The resolution, passed unanimously by the East Point post, which has a membership of more than 500 persons, many of whom are union workers, read in part: "Be it resolved that this post go on record strongly condemning the action of any organization who fails and refuses to co-operate in training of these returning disabled veterans. . . . We strongly urge that the Operators' Union assist in every way in the training of these veterans and admit them to full membership in their organization."

that these disabled soldiers may receive some of the benefits of this great country for which they have so gallantly given of their life, limb and body."

Members of the Operators' Union were not available for comment.

Need Is Great For Atlantans' Clothes Gifts

If every Atlantan would donate five pounds of used clothing—coats, suits, dresses, sweaters, shoes, bedding—from attics and closets, Atlanta would more than meet her quota of 1,500,000 pounds in the United National Clothing Collection, now in progress.

W. C. Harris, general chairman of the Fulton and DeKalb county drive, has announced that clothing can be brought to schools and fire stations any time between now and the end of the month. "If the clothing is there," he explained, "we will have the Army trucks there to collect it."

"Not only will American used clothing help to keep war victims warm and comfortable," he continued, "it will restore their self-respect. They need it to go about the urgent tasks of rebuilding their broken homes and restoring their demolished towns and cities. They need it to become full partners in establishing and maintaining the future peace of the world."

More volunteer workers are needed to sort and pack the donations at headquarters, 236 Peachtree street. Citizens who wish to offer their help should telephone WA. 2035 or call at the Peachtree address. Persons who find headquarters a more convenient place to which to bring their donations than schools or fire stations may do so.

2 Georgians Killed, 4 Hurt, 1 Interned by Nazis, 1 Missing

Two more Georgians have been killed, one is interned by Germany, one is missing, and four have been injured, according to the latest reports from the Army and Navy departments. In all these cases, the next of kin have been previously notified and will be kept informed of any change in status.

Army Dead:

Lt. Richard T. Moore Jr., with a tank destroyer killed in action in Germany, was killed on April 2, the War Department has notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Moore, of Atlanta. A native of Athens, Lt. Moore was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1943 as an honor student. He received his training at the Tank Destroyer school, Camp Hood, Texas, and served as an instructor there before being sent overseas.

In addition to his parents he is survived by a sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Lee, of 824 Greenwood avenue, N. E.

Sgt. Alton E. Feltman, previously reported missing in action, has been killed in France, according to a message received from the War Department by his wife, the former Mary E. Alverston, of Smyrna, Georgia.

Memorial services will be held at 3:30 p. m. Saturday at the Locust Grove Baptist church, with the Rev. D. W. Edwards officiating.

Other survivors include a daughter, Donna Elizabeth Feltman; three sisters, Mrs. Thomas V. Broome, of North Carolina; Miss Lila Feltman, of Douglasville, and Miss Marie Feltman, of Atlanta; four brothers, Cpl. John T. Feltman, with the Marine Corps; Fred, Conis and Donald Feltman, of Douglasville, Georgia.

A former employee of the H. L. Green Company here, he entered the service in October, 1942, and received his basic training at Camp Hood, Texas, with the tank destroyer unit. For 16 months he served as instructor there. Sgt. Feltman was stationed in the European area for a period of five months.

Interned by Germany:

Pfc. James Stewart, son of W. A. Stewart, of Griffin, and brother-in-law of Mrs. Douglas Stewart, of Sunny Side. He had previously been reported as missing in action in France since Jan. 22, 1945.

Wounded, Pacific:

HIS LOVE PROVED, WIFE PAYS FINE

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., April 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Roosevelt today paid a $25 fine imposed on her husband for beating another woman whom he mistook for his wife.

Posey pleaded guilty in police court to third degree assault, admitting he struck Mrs. Julia Abaron on a street and then apologized, saying he thought she was his wife.

He explained to Police Justice Francis L. Giles that his wife had been absent from home for some time and he became worried and went out to search for her.

"That proves he loves me," said Mrs. Posey as she paid the fine.

Army Missing:

T. Sgt. Elvis E. Andrews, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Andrews, of Montezuma, has been missing in action over Yugoslavia since April 1, according to a telegram from the War Department received by his parents Friday.

Sgt. Andrews was a radio operator on a B-17, and it is believed that he made his last mission on Easter Sunday.

A graduate of the Montezuma High school and one of its most popular athletes, he entered the service in October 1943, and received his basic training at Keesler Field, Miss. He was later transferred to Sioux Falls Air Base, S. D., where he participated in all sports. Sgt. Andrews has been overseas since November 1944.

The sergeant has three brothers in the service; Lt. Frank H. Andrews, A. C. Joseph Paul Andrews and Sgt. LeRoy A. Andrews.

Injured in Germany:

Cpl. Alvah E. Daniel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvah H. Daniel, of Thomaston, was seriously burned when the tank in which he was riding was hit by Nazi fire on March 25, inside Germany, according to word received by his parents from the War Department.

Pvt. Harold T. Jones, with an infantry division in the Ninth Army, has been wounded in action in Germany, according to a message from the War Department to his wife, Mrs. Rosa Shepherd Jones, of Griffin.

Maj. Walter Ben McKenzie, in Germany, has been slightly wounded in his leg, according to word received this week by his mother, Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, of Montezuma.

Wounded, Pacific:

Pvt. Millard C. Matson, husband of Mrs. Ruby Bass Matson, of Albany, has been wounded in the Philippines, his wife has been informed.

FREE MOVIE DAY

Anniversary of D-Day
To Help in Loan Drive

Georgia motion picture theaters will have an "even greater part in the forthcoming war loan, the Seventh, which will begin May 14," according to plans set up yesterday in Atlanta at a called meeting of exhibitors and film industry representatives throughout the state.

June 6, the first anniversary of Allied landings in Normandy, has been designated as "free movie day" for those who have purchased bonds of $25 or more. All theaters in Georgia and the nation will co-operate in this effort, instead of separate days being set for free movie admittance by bond buyers.

William K. Jenkins, state chairman of the theaters' effort, presided over the luncheon meeting. He was assisted by Robert Wilbey, activities chairman for the south-eastern area, and Tom Camp, chairman of the Treasury Department's war finance committee for the state.

FLAG PRESENTATION

Meanwhile, another school, Benteen elementary school in Fulton county, has received a special flag for 96 per cent participation in bond and stamp purchases. F. E. Barron, director, school division, WFC, awarded a "Minute-man" flag, showing a navy blue figure on a white background, to the youngsters and teachers of the small school.

The 215 students, ranging in age from six to 12, have bought enough stamps and bonds since March 1 to purchase a $1,180 jeep. The jeep will be marked with a tiny plaque, "From the Benteen school, Atlanta, Georgia," by the manufacturers before shipment to the armed forces. School chairman for the drive is faculty member, Miss Will Gary Williams, and the principal is Miss Lydia Guice.

Lt. Daniel Briley, of Thomasville, holder of the Distinguished Unit Citation and Bronze Star, told the children about his experiences in the southwest Pacific, and urged them to continue their "fine record." "There are lots of fellows over there who are doing far more than their duty, and so you must buy more bonds and stamps—a little bit more than your duty calls for to put over the Seventh War Loan," said Lt. Briley.

KIDNIE MATINEES

The school children will have an opportunity to see several "kiddie" matinees for admission in bonds and stamps, and their elders will see a series of Frank Capra films at their local theaters during the drive. Jenkins asked every Georgia movie house to become a bond-issuing agent, or, if lack of personnel prevented, to arrange to take bonds on consignment from local banks. He announced that for the first time, all downtown Atlanta theaters and many neighborhood houses will be issuing agents. "The movie theater is the central place for bond purchases, night or day, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays," he pointed out.

Among out-of-town exhibitors who attended the meeting were Adolph Gortalsky, of Albany; Hugh and Roy Martin, of Columbus; T. O. Tabor, of Columbus; Zeb Duncan, of Carrollton; Nat Williams, of Thomasville; Bob Buchanan, of Live Oak; Elmer L. Shields, of Columbus; William Karth, of Swainsboro.

CONFERENCE

cisco, the President said, is to construct the delicate machinery "which will make future peace, not only possible, but certain."

"We represent the overwhelming majority of all mankind," he said. "We speak for people, who have endured the most savage and devastating war ever inflicted upon innocent men, women and children."

Under the massive vault of the opera house, beneath a splash of still molten metal, delegates listened in silent awareness of the enormous duty resting upon them.

They listened, too, to a brief address by Secretary of State Stettinius, their temporary chairman, and welcoming words from Gov. Earl Warren, of California, and Mayor Roger Lapham, of San Francisco.

"No one of the large nations, no one of the small nations," Stettinius said, "can afford anything less than success in this endeavor. Each of them knows too well what the consequence of failure would be."

But in pre-conference consultations, smaller nations had continued up to the opening hour to jockey for positions of greater prominence. And the Big Three failed to break their deadlock on creating a Polish government acceptable to all.

Through the morning and into the afternoon, there had been meetings of individual delegations in their hotel headquarters. Delegates of the four sponsoring powers—the United States, Britain, Russia and China—had meetings of their own.

The Big Four foreign ministers assembled, apparently to consider last-minute arrangements primarily. But there were indications that they also diverted their discussions to the boiling Polish controversy—without a trace of progress toward settling it.

Russia's outlook improved on another point. If the Soviets press the issue, they apparently can tally three votes for themselves in a proposed general assembly of a world organization.

Some Latin American nations were reported lining up with the Russians; the British commonwealth of nations already had done so.

It isn't that they would like to see Russia get two extra votes. But they would prefer that to any breakdown of the conference. The American delegation remained hopeful Russia wouldn't raise the three-vote question.

Yet if she got them, some delegates suggested, she might ease off in her insistence of Polish representation at the conference—although the Big Three rift over composition of a Polish government would remain as deep as ever.

President Truman addressed the delegates in short, measured sentences, his voice flooding through the auditorium which honors the dead of another war.

He himself had turned to words of peace from a war conference in Washington with his top military leaders.

"You members of this conference," the President said, "are to be the architects of the better world. In your hands rests our future. By your labors at this conference we shall know if suffering humanity is to achieve a just and lasting peace."

"Let us labor to achieve a peace which is really worthy of their great sacrifice. We must make certain, by your work here, that another war will be impossible."

Mr. Truman spoke humbly of his predecessor.

Surely, he said, Franklin D. Roosevelt "is with us today in spirit."

The President made no effort to minimize the enormity of the problems confronting the conference. But none doubts, he said, that adequate solutions will be found.

As for the United Nations, the President observed:

"We were not isolated during the war. We dare not become isolated in peace."

Stettinius told the hundreds of delegates clustered in red velvet seats:

"Now the deepest hope and highest purpose of all mankind—enduring peace—is here committed to our hands. . . . We approach our task humbly, but with united resolution."

"The prayers of the people of the world are with us."

Warren and Lapham spoke in similar vein.

"Unity has created the strength to win the war," the Governor asserted. "It is bringing us ever closer to the end of world conflict."

"This same strength of unity, continued and cultivated here, can be made to develop a sound pattern of world affairs with a new measure of security for all nations."

"You delegates," Mayor Lapham said, "bear the brunt of what lies before us in the postwar world. May we help you in creating the framework of a world security organization—an organization built not on the shifting sands of distrust but on the rock of mutual understanding."

Before the delegates on the stage from which they heard Stettinius, flags of the 46 participating nations were placed in alphabetical order—a splash of color against a dull blue velvet backdrop.

No pomp and fanfare were arranged for the conference opening itself. The voice of President Truman was being brought in from Washington for an address. Gov. Earl Warren, of California, and Mayor Roger Lapham, of San Francisco, were on hand to welcome the delegates.

Civic Club To Meet
Cook's District Civic Club will meet at 8 p. m. today in the E. P. Howell school auditorium, with an interesting program arranged, according to Frank Bettis, publicity chairman.

Cotton Group Attacks OPA Textile Top

'Net Worth Formula' Hinders Effort To Up Output, Resolution Says

The OPA has been attacked for determining ceiling prices for cotton textiles and charged with circumventing the Bankhead-Brown amendment to the emergency price control act in a resolution passed during the annual meeting of the American Cotton Manufacturers Association, held yesterday at the Biltmore hotel.

The resolution charged the OPA's "net worth formula" penalizes an effort to increase production of textile goods that are required for the armed services. "In applying the so-called 'net worth formula' in establishing ceiling prices for the cotton textile industry, the margin of profit permitted the mill is inadequate, unjust, and confiscatory," the resolution stated.

In other charges the association claimed that there is nothing in the OPA statute that authorizes control of profits as being a measure of what constitutes proper ceiling prices.

Dr. William P. Jacobs, of Clinton, S. C., was elected president to succeed W. Harrison Hightower, of Thomaston. Dr. Jacobs is a former president of Presbyterian College and will make his headquarters in Charlotte, N. C.

Other officers elected were: Charles A. Cannon, of Kannapolis, N. C., chairman of the board; Walter A. Montgomery, of Spartan, N. C., first vice president; and Fuller Callaway, of LaGrange, second vice president. Members of the executive committee elected were: Cannon, Montgomery, Callaway, Hugh Comer, of Sylva, Ala.; W. D. Anderson, of Macon; R. E. Henry, of Greenville, S. C.; and A. G. Myers, of Gastonia, N. C.

Dr. Jacobs was elected treasurer in addition to his duties as president.

During the meeting it was resolved that copies of the resolution be sent to each member of congress.

HITLER'S LAIR

has a psychological effect, and it also can be assumed that the Germans are gathering there for a last stand. Thus it becomes a military target of more importance than before.

The reaction of the men who did the bombing was summed up by a returning navigator who exclaimed:

"This was the mission we have been waiting for all through the war."

"I saw one terrific flash right on Hitler's house," said a British flight sergeant. "It was a 12,000-pounder all right."

Photos taken during the spectacular attack showed a large number of bombs bursting on and around both locations and on the nearby barracks of his hand-picked bodyguard of 10,000 Nazi fanatics.

Sixty bombs—the type which riddled the great German battle-turret ship and drove through 20-foot thick concrete U-boat shelters—were poured into the Berchtesgaden area and an Air Ministry announcement indicated the RAF was taking part in the attack.

may also have used its new 11-ton volcano bomb that can create a 150-foot crater.

BLAST OTHER TARGETS

The bombers met only moderate flak in the area but fighters, sweeping over the peaks and valleys in a strafing romp, were greeted by intense anti-aircraft fire. It was known that Hitler's formidable fortress was protected by a chain of anti-aircraft positions along the Lattengebirge mountain chain opposite the Kehlsteinhaus.

While the great Lancasters hit at the heart of this redoubt, more than 1,000 American warplanes blasted targets within a 10-mile radius of Berchtesgaden.

Out of the Eighth Air Force armada sent against Bavaria and Pilsen, 16 bombers and three fighters were missing, U. S. Air Force headquarters announced. The British Air Ministry said two of its Lancasters were missing.

The bombs dumped on Hitler's retreat were fused for deep penetration.

DESCRIPTORS "TWO HITS"
"I saw two heavy bombs fall either on the house or so near it makes no difference," said the sergeant who described destruction of the chateau. "Just before we got to the house there was a steep hill, and although I could see bombs falling from planes ahead they disappeared behind the hill before they hit the target. Then as soon as we flew over the hill, there was his house right below, and I saw two hits."

Another airman said, "the SS barracks were taking a severe beating. Each time we looked down at them, one of the buildings was exploding. A large door went spinning through the air and fell on another building."

A second wave of Lancasters hit the barracks with six "earthquake" two-ton "blockbusters" and 1,000-pound bombs 45 minutes after the first attack. Crews said the area was almost obscured by great pillars of smoke.

"The largest pill of smoke over the chateau," said a flight officer. "The whole area seems to have been straddled."

TARGETS IDENTIFIED

Hitler's private house, also known as the Haus Wachenfeld, is 16 miles from the town of Berchtesgaden itself and is on the slopes of the Obersalzberg. The house has been considerably enlarged since Neville Chamberlain visited Hitler there in 1938.

The Air Ministry said all targets were clearly identified.

"This was the mission we have been waiting for all through the war," said a returning navigator.

An RAF Mustang pilot, who was over the area during the attack, said the Berchtesgaden district was blanketed with oily black smoke, flames leaping through it.

"Smoke boiled thousands of feet high," he said, "but despite it we could still see massive explosions going on beneath as the bombs crashed down. The place was a little hell."

From Hitler's chalet a road winds five miles to the Kehlstein, a 5,000-foot spur of the Hoher Goll mountain range. The road ends abruptly at the great bronze doors of the refuge.

SMALLEST OF TARGETS
Behind the first doors are a second pair and these open onto a corridor 130 yards along which leads straight into the heart of the mountain. At the end of this passage is an elevator as large as an average-sized living room. A shaft rises 400 feet to an extraordinary building with a roof that occupies almost the whole top of the mountain.

This roof is only 17 yards square, probably the smallest target any heavy bomber has ever had.

This was the target today for the Lancasters hauling the specially fused "earthquake" bombs. No claim was made that this "roof of the world" was hit directly, but it was at least straddled and damage probably was caused to the inner quarters of the fortress. These quarters were elaborately supplied with electricity, water, kitchens and rooms for scores of servants and secretaries.

Before the war "Eagle's Nest" had no bedrooms and Hitler used it for an observation post and entertainment quarters. From a balcony above a precipice, he admired the view of the Hoher Goll mountain and the Königssee lake. Today they both made useful landmarks for the bombers flying over the maze of peaks and valleys.

SIGNIFICANT ATTACK
The American heavies pounded freight yards at Hallein, 10 miles northeast of Berchtesgaden; Salzburg, 10 miles north, and Traunstein, 23 miles northwest.

The attack on Salzburg was regarded as especially significant, since Stockholm reports several days ago said the German government had been moved to that city.

"The roads to Salzburg were lined with tanks," said Sgt. James Leigh, of Itasca, N. Y., an engineer on a Liberator.

The some 500 fighters accompanying the bombers broke off escort duty during the bombing to enjoy a free-for-all strafing of the area. They had little competition in showering their 50-caliber slugs for the Germans themselves long ago said the civilian populace around Berchtesgaden had been removed and the Fuehrer's personal guards billeted in the little cottages and bungalows.

Meanwhile 300 Eighth Air Force Fortresses, shielded by Mustangs, spread nearly 1,000 tons of explosives on the great Skoda works and a nearby airfield where hoarded planes were stationed for protection of the factory.

An hour and a half before the bombers arrived, Gen. Eisenhower, in an unprecedented message, broadcast to Skoda slave workers a warning to get out of the plant as "a strong force of bombers is en route."

This epic attempt to save lives was made although it gave the Germans ample time to prepare their defenses. In the face of this, the attack rates as one of the boldest of the war. The Germans were well set.

BERLIN IN BAG—Russian troops have joined up west of Berlin, completing encirclement of the German capital and sealing off escape routes for defenders of that city and possibly Hitler himself, who the Germans insist is in his doomed capital. ## Dixie Dunbar To Appear at Paradise Room

Dixie Dunbar, pert dancing star of Broadway and Hollywood musicals, who began her career in show business as a youngster in Atlanta, will appear in the Paradise Room of the Henry Grady hotel beginning next Thursday in a special floor show.

Dixie Dunbar

Miss Dunbar, whose nimble dancing feet have carried her to fame in such outstanding Broadway hits as "Yokel Boy" and such movies as "Professional Soldier" and "King Burlesque," will be in Atlanta for only two weeks, Juddie Johnson, manager of the club said, since she and her husband, Gene Snyder, director of the famed Radio City Musical Hall chorus, will entertain shortly thereafter for a trip overseas to entertain men on the fighting fronts.

She first gained fame as a tap dancer during the Kiddle Revue days in Atlanta theaters. She won several contests and immediately established a name for herself in New York, where she has been starred in the bigger clubs and in several stage productions.

SIGNIFICANT ATTACK

The American heavies pounded freight yards at Hallein, 10 miles northeast of Berchtesgaden; Salzburg, 10 miles north, and Traunstein, 23 miles northwest.

The attack on Salzburg was regarded as especially significant, since Stockholm reports several days ago said the German government had been moved to that city.

"The roads to Salzburg were lined with tanks," said Sgt. James Leigh, of Itasca, N. Y., an engineer on a Liberator.

The some 500 fighters accompanying the bombers broke off escort duty during the bombing to enjoy a free-for-all strafing of the area. "The flak was immense," said

Maj. Charles Bordner, of Stephenville, Texas, squadron commander. "We were in it for 20 minutes while circling three times trying to pick up our aiming point. But we left the works enveloped in smoke boiling up over a five-mile area and gushing 12 to 15 miles in the sky."

Maj. James Cheney, of Jacksonville, Fla., a Fortress navigator, said "there were several big explosions — one a quarter-mile wide."

NAZI FLIERS BALKED

It was the first attack on Skoda since Feb. 9, 1944, when RAF heavies from Italy hit it.

Although flak was heavy, the fighter cover was so effective no enemy interceptors got through. One jet-propelled enemy fighter was downed.

During the afternoon the RAF dispatched another force of heavy bombers, escorted by Spitfires, against coastal guns and fortified positions on the Frisian island of Wangeroe, near the mouth of the River Weser.

Heavy bombers from Italy attacked the Austrian communications center of Linz, only 61 miles from the Red army west of Vienna, while Thunderbolts ranged over northern Italy bombing and strafing fleeing enemy vehicles. Medium bombers hacked at the Brenner Pass route as far north as Steinach, Austria.

Eliminate Overlapping Federal Agencies

Lindsay C. Warren, comptroller general of the United States, has voiced an economy plea which will meet with the enthusiastic approval of every friend of efficient government.

"Untold millions" can be saved by the lopping off of overlapping government agencies, Lindsay told a senate banking and currency subcommittee this week.

These agencies most of which have been set up under the executive department, now operate with a large measure of independence. Many, according to the comptroller general, are not only removed from the jurisdiction of congress, but also "free from accountability to the President."

The need, therefore, is for a complete reorganization of many government bureaus.

"It should be done scientifically," declares Warren; "but, once the decision is made, then a bush ax or a meat cleaver should be used. The only way to reorganize is to reorganize. It calls for great courage. Duplications and overlapping are widely prevalent, and untold millions could be saved and efficiency increased to a high degree. Of course, there would be loud yelps and snarls, but that is always true when powers are curbed, consolidations made, or appropriations reduced or discontinued."

Neither of our wars is over; one is far from won. Yet already there are demands that taxes be reduced immediately after V-E Day. The only manner in which we can ever hope to pay off the tremendous national debt we have incurred is through the practice of strict economy in non-essential government expenditures. And that, most certainly, includes immediate elimination of overlapping bureaus and agencies.

Memorial Day in a Nation United

The old wounds have healed.

The bitter hatreds have been forgotten.

United, in peace and war, we stand today one nation, dedicated to democracy and the fullest freedom of humankind.

It is meet, however, and proper that we should set aside one day each year to the memory of that thin gray line, of the cause which was foredoomed to failure, of the men who gave their lives to the ill-fated nation which was the Confederate States of America.

Theirs was a military genius born of sheer necessity. Overmatched and under-equipped at every stage of the conflict, they fought with a cunning and bravery which ignored the conventional and flaunted the odds. The caliber of their leadership and the quality of the men in the ranks remain today a symbol of perfection wherever the annals of warfare are read.

Theirs was the last of the crusades. Theirs was a chivalry, a gallantry of military code which is utterly alien in a day when brutality characterizes every action of both our foes. It is not strange that we should cherish their memory and revere their contribution to our history.

The old wounds have healed and the bitter hatreds have been forgotten. But the heritage which they left us, the example of faith and devotion to cause which they set us, these will remain in the hearts of men forever.

San Francisco Problems Are Your Problems

It is to be hoped that every American will make a special effort to read and understand the reports which will be coming from the San Francisco World Security Conference.

There is no overestimating the importance, to this nation and the world, of the decisions which will be reached during the course of this assembly. It is of momentous consequence, to the nation at large and to each of us as individuals, that there be a general public understanding of the matters considered and acted upon.

Assistant Secretary of State Archibald MacLeish spoke for the entire administration when he recently said: "You cannot have an effective foreign policy in a self-governing country unless the citizens understand it and approve it. Contrary to the usual impression, the one policy of a democratic country is not a people's policy which must be a people's policy, in the literal sense of that term. For if the foreign policy of a democratic country is not a people's policy, it is not a policy at all; it has nothing back of it but the hopes, or the intentions, of the officials who typed it out."

The decisions which will be made at San Francisco will affect our destinies, individually and collectively, for decades to come. Study the problems and formulate your own opinions. It's as much your concern as anyone else's.

Treatment of Germany Troublesome Problem

(Editor's Note: Ralph McGill is en route around the world as a member of the American Society of Newspaper Editors' mission in behalf of universal news freedom. His column will appear as time and communications facilities allow. When it is not available, substitute features will be used, as today's by Ernest K. Lindley.)

SAN FRANCISCO.—The San Francisco Conference has been so highly publicized that one senses a tendency, even among some Washington officials, to regard it as a cure-all. Actually, it is only another step—although an essential step—toward establishing a workable world security organization. It will not even deal with many of the most important and difficult problems which must be settled if the peace is to be preserved.

One of these is the treatment of Germany. I'd like to summarize a few impressions of our preparations for dealing with this problem, gleaned from a recent brief tour of the European theater. They are only impressions, gathered on the run.

Military Government We do not have enough trained military government officers. They have to be supplemented by officers and men detailed from the advancing armies. These are often the officers and men who can be most readily spared from other duties. They know it and are unhappy. And they usually have no particular qualifications for dealing with German civilians.

The regular military government officers have been overtaxed further by the responsibility for handling the millions of displaced persons liberated by the American armies. This is only a temporary duty, but it has been burdensome. Someone was very slow in shifting at least part of this load to civilians trained for that type of work. Some UNRRA teams were just going into the field when I left Europe. A few teams of French MMLA women—Mission Militaire Liaison avec les Allies—were doing excellent work. These were originally organized to assist during the liberation of France. The team I saw in action, in Belgium, was strikingly intelligent and efficient. The American officer in charge in that area said he wished he had a dozen of them, and I heard the same sentiments expressed by others. With foresight, many more of these teams might have been formed.

The regular military government officers know how to get waterworks and electric systems repaired and the importance of preventing epidemics of dangerous diseases. As a rule, they seem to do a pretty good emergency job of setting up local administrations consisting of Germans who have not been ardent Nazis. They seem to be competent in performing their first obligation, which is to help to keep our armies moving and to keep things quiet along the supply lines. But at least some of them know very little about Germany and the Germans.

Nonfraternization The War Department has worked up movies and slides designed to remind the American soldier that the German people, as a whole, fought this war and aren't to be trusted. These are being shown in the communications zone and later doubtless will be shown to the American troops which remain in Germany.

At various headquarters I was told that the soldiers who had actually been in combat against the Germans in this war would remain fiercely anti-German. The fear among these officers appeared to be that the American people who had stayed at home would be too soft-hearted.

However, the officers lower down and the enlisted men in Germany with whom I happened to talk were critical of indiscriminate nonfraternization. And I don't believe most of them were thinking of the frauleins. They referred rather to the old people and the children. It is very difficult for a GI not to give candy to children or to be nice to an elderly woman. Several times, with reference not only to the old and the very young but to miscellaneous middle-aged German men and women who were visible on the streets, I heard American men in uniform say: "These are not the people who were responsible for this war."

Undoubtedly some American soldiers have come thoroughly to hate the Germans. Their number may be increased by the uncovering of the atrocities camps and the revelations of the poor treatment which the Germans gave American prisoners of war. But, one suspects, the tendency of the ordinary American in uniform will be to put the blame on a small coterie rather than on the German people generally. Even though he knows that if every German who now professes to have been an anti-Nazi were to be killed, Hitler would have been thrown out years ago by the Germans themselves.

However, I found opposition to a blanket nonfraternization policy among officers who knew the Germans well. They said that it was preventing us from building up the Germans who really were anti-Nazi at heart but had managed to keep out of concentration camps and on whom we would have to rely to govern and reform the German people.

These impressions are confused and conflicting. But they reflect what I found. And the uncertainties of the Americans in Germany reflect those which are apparent in the U. S. A. when the future of Germany is discussed.

Pertinent Suggestion On Veterans' Hospital

There has been considerable writing, pro and con, about conditions inside our hospitals for war veterans. It all started when somebody authored a scathing condemnation of these places. Since that original article there have been some who defended the hospitals, their direction, personnel and conditions. Others have been critical. This column did, one morning, try to contribute a little to the controversy by reporting reports made by friends who have, at various times, been patients at Hospital 48, out Peachtree road. It was made clear in that column that said reports were made by others, that I had little personal knowledge of the hospitals. I stated plainly that the only veterans' hospital I had been inside in Lawson, that I had seen 48 only from the outside.

So, someone promptly wrote accusing me of writing of things I knew nothing about, dubbing me a "nosey reporter," and other less complimentary things.

Now, however, comes a letter from an Atlanta lady which contains what seems to me to be a very pertinent suggestion, though personal application is impossible for reasons not necessary to be explained here.

Need Male Interest Mrs. Mary Acuff, maker of the suggestion, is a student of American Red Cross and Hospital Corps (Grady Ladies). That is, the need for more male visitors and male workers in the hospitals. A worker, speaking at this class, spoke on how difficult it is to get men interested in this type of work.

"Why is it?" writes Mrs. Acuff, "that men leave all that sort of thing to women and then oftentimes criticize their efforts?" Well, why is it? Because, I guess, the work is thought of as closely linked with the work of the nurses in the hospitals and we are accustomed to thinking of nursing the sick as a woman's duty.

But Mrs. Acuff's point is well taken. It is doubtless true that men in the hospitals to help themselves and to adjust themselves to their changed outlook on life. And who are the women who are the Gray Ladies? Most of them are business women who work, daily, in offices or industrial plants, who keep their own homes running smoothly and who, like all women, have their own problems and all the other wartime added problems.

The Gray Ladies The Gray Ladies of the Red Cross are doing, we all admit, magnificent work in aiding the men in the hospitals to find themselves and to adjust themselves to their changed outlook on life. And who are the women who are the Gray Ladies? Most of them are business women who work, daily, in offices or industrial plants, who keep their own homes running smoothly and who, like all women, have their own problems and all the other wartime added problems.

Yet, they find time to perform the duties of the Gray Ladies, to help the surgical and nursing staffs at Hospital 48, at Lawson and at all the other veterans' hospitals scattered over the country. If these women can find time for this labor of devotion, in addition to all the other things they do, surely there are many business men who could do likewise.

I don't know that it would be advisable to form a parallel organization of, say, Gray Men, but I do believe it would be a valuable contribution if as many men as could be used volunteered their services to visit the hospitals, to get to know the patients, to make friends with them, to meet them as one man to another, and to help them surmount the very real problems they face.

Craftwork Many of the patients have been taught various handicrafts by the Red Cross. Many of the war-wounded veterans are hopelessly disabled men are not only sending money to their families, but are regularly buying war bonds through money earned by the sale of small articles of their own making, and thereby finding new interest and lease on life.

It is, nevertheless, true in many cases that this type of work is not always the kind of thing that men really enjoy doing. Many of them are, in many cases, it is quite possible men now dissatisfied could find the thing they really enjoy doing through the guidance of a sympathetic man, more easily than they can by aid of women. It seems to me there is, in this opportunity to make friendships with the men in hospitals, an opening for a very valuable type of service for the menfolk.

Would it not be possible to interest either individual men, or some group or organization, in this activity and, through the Red Cross or other proper agency, find entrance to the hospitals? As said, there are reasons why I can't engage in such activity. But, if this column carries the suggestion this morning to some one who can and who will, I shall feel I have contributed something valuable to a cause most near all our hearts.

Brilliant Hogtied

A newspaper story sent from Washington some weeks ago made the shocking revelation that ten million of our finest young men had somehow been denied adequate education.

Of those accepted for military service, half a million were either wholly illiterate or had learned to read and write but had "less than the equivalent of a fourth grade education." Four and a half million had passed the fourth grade but dropped out somewhere before the eighth. And five million had finished the eighth grade but had quit before getting through high school.

Why had they quit? Nobody knows the correct answer, for there has been no scientific study of the matter.

But we do know that some quit because they had reached the limit of their capacity to understand. Others quit because they couldn't wait to grow up. Unable to realize how much they would be handicapped, they were impatient to get at the business of making money. Others quit, of apparent necessity, to help make the family living. And some quit because they were ordinary.

But whatever the other reasons may have been, the majority quit because school wasn't made interesting enough to hold them.

This is not an indictment of our educational system. Whatever the critics may say, teachers are better prepared and more competent and schools better equipped and more efficient than they were 50 years ago. Yet the fact remains that something must be wrong when so many kids leave school too soon.

The subject is too big to be discussed in anything less than a book, but the chief faults of the system are generally conceded without discussion.

The first is that it wastes time. Like Communism, it establishes equality by holding back smart students to match the pace of the slowest. Ordinary kids can learn faster than present schedules require, and Army educators have demonstrated that schooling can be absorbed in a fraction of the usual time if better teaching methods are used.

There is no sense in spending nine months to "get through" a text book if a bright kid can absorb it in a few weeks. And it is a tragic waste of life to keep young people in school for sixteen years if it isn't necessary.

The other chief fault is similar. Head, of all sizes are expected to fit the same hat. No allowance is made for differences in capacity, talent, taste or natural tendency. No stock man who raises Clydesdale draft horses, Hambletonian trotters and Thoroughbreds would give them all the same kind of training, yet that would be reasonable as the way we school our kids.

Every youngster has the capacity to do some useful thing well, and the obviously sensible plan would be to find out what he is naturally equipped to do and train him for it.

Here's a Hint For Hoarders

The War Production Board, according to a Chicago WPB regional administrator, is currently considering placing some control on the sale of castor oil.

This information is not widely known as yet and I print it here so that you and my other two readers may rush down and stock up before the hoarders get wind of it.

Any day now, once word gets around, you may expect to see not one, but two lines, in front of every drugstore: one for cigarettes and one for castor oil.

Human nature being what it is, people who haven't thought of castor oil for years will grab buckets, kegs and jugs and hie themselves to the nearest pharmaceutical emporium to lay in a supply.

Black markets will spring up all over the city as racketeers enter the castor oil-legging field and the price will go up like a hot-air balloon at a country fair. Ration boards will be swamped with hundreds of affidavits from pompous citizens convinced that theirs are essential occupations.

All of which is all right with me. I can't think of a better dose for hoarders. I am worried, however, lest the younger generation, hearing of the shortage, conclude that war, after all, is not such a terrible thing.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Suppose Japanese Surrender Quickly

WASHINGTON.—Certain forward-looking business elements have posed the question of the country, and particularly to the domestic economy of suddenly quit the war coincident with or shortly after the final collapse of Germany.

There is still more than an outside possibility of events taking that dramatic turn. While the weight of official opinion continues to hold that it will take us from six months to a year to finish off Japan after the Germans have been knocked out, others see the likelihood of the Japs realizing the hopelessness of their position and throwing in the sponge at once, seeking thus to salvage as much from their unhappy plight as possible.

It could easily be this way. The Japs are doomed to certain defeat and their leaders must surely be aware of this by now. Rather than see their country overrun and destroyed as Germany is now being systematically destroyed, reason would dictate that they quit the war after the downfall of the Reich.

The question of what the impact of sudden peace would be on our domestic economy and the stock market is, therefore, a timely one.

Importance Its importance is reflected in the fact that perhaps 90 per cent or more of our industrial production is currently given over to war purposes. There would be, therefore, an immediate cancellation of all such contracts, since we would no longer need the vast war supplies and munitions that are being turned out by the plants of the country. Millions of people would consequently be thrown out of employment overnight. Pay rolls would temporarily cease and workers would have to fall back on their savings to carry them until re-employment began.

That would be the effect of a sudden cessation of hostilities on both fronts, Europe and the Pacific. It would be far less drastic if the Japanese war continued for a period after the German collapse, for, in that case, a part of our industrial machine would continue to serve war needs. The transition from a war to a peace economy would be more gradual.

A certain amount of business disruption is to follow in any event, regardless of when the Japanese war ends. Industry and business will need time for reconversion, just as it took us some time to change over from peace to war production. But the disruption would be far more severe if both wars ended at about the same time.

That is the thought about the situation that is currently giving business leaders some concern.

Stock Market As regards the effect of such a development it is reasonable to suppose, an immediate cancellation of all such contracts, since we would no longer need the vast war supplies and munitions that are being turned out by the plants of the country. Millions of people would consequently be thrown out of employment overnight. Pay rolls would temporarily cease and workers would have to fall back on their savings to carry them until re-employment began.

That would be the effect of a sudden cessation of hostilities on both fronts, Europe and the Pacific. It would be far less drastic if the Japanese war continued for a period after the German collapse, for, in that case, a part of our industrial machine would continue to serve war needs. The transition from a war to a peace economy would be more gradual.

A certain amount of business disruption is to follow in any event, regardless of when the Japanese war ends. Industry and business will need time for reconversion, just as it took us some time to change over from peace to war production. But the disruption would be far more severe if both wars ended at about the same time.

That is the thought about the situation that is currently giving business leaders some concern.

But the impact of this important development will not have any serious repercussions on the stock exchange, the Wall Street man declared. He feels that business in the sale and purchase of shares will continue much as it has in the past. Exchange officials are not even considering the necessity of closing the stock market temporarily, it was said.

In other words, as Mr. Schram sees it, the business of the country is on such a firm footing that a sudden ending of the wars would not affect its onward march, beyond causing a temporary disruption. What plans, if any, the government may have for meeting conditions of sudden wholesale unemployment which would attend an overnight ending of the Pacific war, remain to be seen. There has been some talk among responsible congressional leaders of having a graduated cancellation of government contracts, rather than for all war production to be cut off abruptly. That would lessen the shock to our domestic economy.

But whether anything of the kind is done, officials feel that the condition of the country is such that no concern need be raised over our ability to go through the transition period easily.

For years we have been living in a dirty city and I think it is about time that we wake up and get something done. Just look at the dirty filling station and garage and truck-parking lot adjoining the capitol grounds. And look at the dirty buildings surrounding the city hall. These things could have been removed long before the war, but they weren't. It is disgusting the way the streets go and every street car route goes through slummy sections before they reach the outer parts of town. It seems as if the mayor and council have done more talking than work. It is time something is done because people from out of town do not like Atlanta because it is so dirty. This town needs a thorough cleaning. I'm tired of living in a dirty place and have to see dirt and slums every time we get into town. Just one person like me can't do anything, but let's all work together (at election time is one way) and get this city clean. IRVIN BACHELOR JR., Atlanta.

Pine Trees

Editor Constitution: Walking through the woods the other day I noticed that there were long mounds of earth running across the hills that were at one time in the long ago the beds of rows of cotton or corn that our forefathers cultivated. As these hillsides were covered with a thick growth of pines, of good size, I began to speculate as to how long it would take to grow a crop of pine trees.

A sawmill was operating close by and I stopped to count the tree rings of growth of a tree that had been sawed down. When a cross cut saw is used it is easy to count these rings on the stump. I found the answer as to the age of a good-size tree. It was 30 years old. This is a short time in the life of a nation.

Had you ever thought that you could buy some sedge-covered land cheap, plant it in pines, leave it to your children, and if it were cared for only to the extent of keeping out fires it would pay a good dividend?

Farmers of the past, because of the abundance of land, lived by the program: clear up, wear out, turn out. Nature can do wonders in reclamation but the growing density of our population makes it necessary for us to change our ways of handling the land. Years ago, because there were millions of the pines blown across the hills by every wind, to each place where these seeds could germinate a new crop of pines began to grow. But now, because of the disappearing forest areas, there is a scarcity of these seeds. So we must come to the help of nature if we want to stop erosion and provide a supply of timber for the future. GUS HALL, Calhoun.

"Eastern suburbanite, infuriated because wife laughed at his victory garden, chased her with ax."—News item.

We read the daily papers and avidly peruse The helpful hints, the funnies, as well as current news.

For all of us are willing to do the best we can
To join our friends and neighbors in some far-reaching plan.
We plant our little gardens and hope each garden grows
To flourish like the bay-tree, to blossom like the rose.
Go forth, the wise ones tell us, get out beneath the skies,
Relax our nervous systems and take some exercise—
There's tonic in the ozone, there's something of rebirth
Will come to cheer the spirit of him who tills the earth.
And in between our toiling and sudden slaps of pain
Who wearies of his trucking and, in a sudden, heat
A memory comes stealing, a thought of brother Cain
Of passion, slew his brother who specialized in meat.
O tell us not of planting when spring's new moon is low,
How deep to dig the furrow, which way to run the row—
We work it in the moonlight, we water it at morn—
The vegetables perish but rampant is the thorn—
The birds from all creation drop earthward from the skies—
The jimson weed grows stronger, the radish pales and dies.
The best place for a garden that we have ever seen
Is in between the covers of a garden magazine.

Poverty's Place
In Causing Wars

SAN FRANCISCO.—The stake of the Limehouse of the world in this United Nations conference was emphasized coincident with its formal opening by the persuasive and attractive Clement R. Atlee, leader of the British Labor party and deputy prime minister, a member of Great Britain's delegation.

Limehouse, which embraces the dock area of London's East End, is a symbol of poverty and dreary living. Mr. Atlee knows all about it. He was a social worker there as a young man. He lived among its people, saw a blighted sort of life that he never knew existed from his own background in a middle-class family. It was an influence in his conversion to the Labor Party movement. He represents this constituency in parliament.

There are Limehouses still in our country, both urban and rural, as there are all over the world. The British Labor Party leader took occasion, in a conference with the press, to stress the importance of the projected United Nations conference in improving the lot of people everywhere, in doing something for Limehouse. Machinery for this purpose is contemplated in the United Nations organization. This he called its positive side. The negative side is to provide machinery to prevent wars, once they are threatened.

But wars originate, he pointed out, in poor living conditions. The world-wide depression of the early '30s he saw as one of the things that led to the second World War. That is what fosters Fascism and nationalism.

"If we want to raise the standards of living in Europe, we must get away from economic nationalism," he said.

There must be an end to the philosophy of scarcity which was rampant during that era, with the result that governments were destroying food in some countries while people starved in others. Instead, there must be substituted the philosophy of abundance.

It is the people in the Limehouses of the world who suffer so from wars, too.

The British deputy prime minister described the destruction in London's dock area, first from air raids, later from V-bombs. He told of the great empty spaces where once there were houses, of

Presbyterians Cite Successful Year

Dr. Edward D. Grant, of Richmond, Va., executive secretary of the executive committee of religious education and publication of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, reported to the assembly's committee on stewardship, meeting here yesterday, that the Richmond committee had completed one of the most successful years in its history.

Not only were financial contributions greater than ever before, he asserted, but the educational services had been expanded to meet an unprecedented call for service.

The church contributed $108,783 to the benevolent work of the committee, Dr. Grant said, which was $13,720 more than the contributions for 1943-44. The department of religious education, Dr. Grant said, which is supported by the business department earnings, cost $77,847.

Stamp Sales

VIDALIA, Ga., April 25.—Income from sale of stamps at the Vidalia Post Office for the first quarter of 1945 ending March 31, is reported to have showed a gain of 25 per cent over the sale in the corresponding period of 1944 by Postmaster Monroe Davis. Sales for first quarter in 1945 totaled $7,373, against $5,919 for the corresponding 1944 period.

Vinson Foresees Broad Economic Policy After War

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP) Fred M. Vinson, War Mobilization and Reconversion director, told congress today an expanding economy for this nation depends in a large measure upon our foreign economic policies.

Appearing before the House Ways and Means Committee in support of legislation extending and broadening the reciprocal trade act, Vinson said the legislation was part of the administration's "broad economic policy." What congress does about the measure, he said, "will constitute a revealing guide to people throughout the world as to what kind of leadership to expect from the United States."

He said any fair-minded person "will have to admit that it yields results that are equitable and that it affords safeguards against the injury of any legitimate domestic interest."

"This country is committed to the system of free enterprise, Vinson said, "It is our intention, just as soon as it is feasible to do so, to relax and remove wartime restrictions and controls."

"This country is also committed to the goal of an expanding, as opposed to a contractive, economy. It is committed to take every step necessary to ensure that after the war there will be productive jobs for everyone who is able and willing to work."

Quit Putting 'PW' on Suits, Students Told

NEW YORK, April 25.—(AP)—The Army told high school students today to quit marking "PW" on their clothing as a prank or serious consequences might follow.

The Second Service Command, declaring "numerous incidents" had been reported in which students and others marked the prisoner of war identification on their clothing, said:

"Military personnel, believing the wearers of clothing bearing the inscription 'PW' to be escaped prisoners of war, may shoot them if they do not halt when ordered to do so."

The Army said also that use of the "PW" by pranksters would hamper apprehension of escaped prisoners and be "extremely dangerous" in areas where prisoners worked on farms.

By Paul Jones

There's no surer sign that something's about to happen at Lake-wood Park than when Mike Benton, affable man-about-town president of the Southeastern Fair Association, puts in one of his semi-annual visits to the newsrooms of The Constitution. . . . Mike paid his first visit of the 1945 season yesterday to inform us that the park, bedecked in a new orange-and-white dress, and featuring three new rides, will be formally opened with twin programs Saturday and Sunday.

Never one to pass up an opportunity to aid in the war effort whenever possible, Mike has tied the Seventh War Loan in very effectively with his 1945 openings and will present a dazzling fireworks display—the bombing of Tokyo and Berlin and the capture of two Jims—a military band concert and a talk by returned war veterans as features of his gala grandstand show on these two nights. . . . The shows will go on at 8:45 p. m. both nights and admission will be free.

Benton was almost overcome by the impressive array of new "rides" which line the mile-long midway at the park. . . . The greyhound, which was destroyed by flames last year, has been rebuilt by Concessionaire Tom Blackwell at a cost of more than $20,000. . . . The three new fun devices are the boomerang, dangle and dive bomber, the latest "rides" known to the carnival world. . . . Bond booths have been set up at each of the grandstands, Benton said, to accommodate purchasers inspired by the impressive program.

Star at Paradise Room

Atlanta's taste for fine music is not just a lot of make believe. . . . I've seen this demonstrated time and again in the Paradise Room, where a vocalist, with unusual charm and good voice got only a modest reception because she failed to include the lyrics to at least one Franz Lehár tune or a Victor Herbert number in her repertoire. . . . Where, on the other hand, I've seen good vocalists bring the house down with such numbers as "My Little Gypsy Sweetheart," "Kiss Me Again" and "When You're Away, Dear." . . . What I'm leading up to is that Miss Gloria French, the blond and pretty vocalist, currently starring in the Paradise Room show, must have been tipped off about Atlanta's likes and dislikes before she opened here, for her whole program consists of such numbers as these. . . . In addition to those above mentioned, she does "Holiday for Strings," "Romany Life," "Italian Street Song," and "All of a Sudden My Heart Sings." . . . She pours a lot of song into the mike and her efforts to entertain have been rewarded with tumultuous applause at every show I have seen.

Three New Shows

Three new flickers, offering a potpourri of horror, adventure and spectacle of romance and color, are set to open at downtown theaters today. . . . "Salome Where She Danced," which Universal Pictures officials assure us is one of the most revolutionary screen attractions of the decade, commences on the Paramount screen with Yvonne DeCarlo, starred May 3. . . . "Counter Attack," a two-listed war story, with Paul Muni carrying the banner, opens at the Rialto, and Boris Karloff and his partner in crime, Lon Chaney, make things uncomfortable for the customers at the Roxy in "House of Frankenstein." . . . The Capitol returns "Topper" and "Double Exposure," two oldies, both of which have impressive casts.

Partial List Of Freed POW Camps Issued

WASHINGTON, April 25.—(AP) A partial list of German prisoner of war camps containing American soldiers which have been overrun by Allied armies was released today by the War Department.

Allied troops have captured at least 47 of the 78 camps and hospitals in which Americans are known to be held. Some 20,000 to 25,000 Americans have been liberated.

The partial list as compiled by the department and, in some cases, the number liberated at the camps follows:

Part of Stalag Luft 3 at Lauf, Wassernburg, 200 liberated; Oflag 12B at Hadamar; Oflag 79 at Brunswick; Oflag 13B at Hammelburg, 48 liberated; Luft 4 at Stalag 357 in Oerbke, Stalag 10B at Sandstetel and Stalag 11B at Falling-Botel, 2,838 liberated at the three camps.

Stalag 2B at Hammerstein; Stalag 2D at Stargard; Stargard 3C at Altdreiwitz, 1,500 liberated; Stalag 344 at Lamsdorf; Stalag 8B at Teschen; Stalag 8C at Sagan; Stalag 8A at Gorlitz; Stalag and Lazaret 5A at Ludwigsburg; Stalag and Oflag 5B at Villigen.

Oflag 7B at Eichstadt; Stalag 17B at Krumm; Stalag 4B at Muhlberg; Stalag 4D at Torgau; Stalag 4F at Hartmannsdorf; Stalag 4G at Oshatz; Oflag 4C at Coditz, four American officers liberated.

Stalag 6G at Bergneustadt; Stalag 6J at Dorsten D; Stalag 9A at Ziegenhain, 1,287 liberated; Stalag 9B at Bad Orb, 3,248 liberated.

Oflag 9A—H at Spangenberg; Oflag 9A—Z at Mulhausen; Stalag 9C at Bad Sulza; Stalag 12A at Limburg; Stalag 12D at Waldreitbach; Stalag 12F at Freinsheim; Stalag 13C at Hammelburg; Dulag Luft at Wetzlar, Dietz and Oberursel, 738 liberated.

Lazaret Bad Seden at Meiningen and Obermaasfeld; Burgan-Puchmuhl in Wurttemberg province, 47 liberated; Oflag 64 at Schubin, approximately 200 liberated; Lazaret at Heppenheim, 350 liberated.

Granted Citizenship

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—(AP)—German-born Mrs. Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, wife of World War I's most publicized draft dodger, was granted American citizenship today by U. S. District Judge George A. Welsh.

Mothers, Fathers, Wives of Our Fighting Men

You who have the greatest desire to do something concrete and effective for your men and women in uniform are offered the opportunity of doing the utmost service to the war effort. Your help is needed at once to help raise the money which permits us to spend equipment instead of men whenever possible in acquiring our military objectives.

The Civilian Defense organization needs volunteers to sell war bonds. It wants relatives of servicemen and women to offer to see their neighbors, let their neighbors buy war bonds from them.

Just mail this coupon to Pup Phillips, C. and S. building, Atlanta 3. Full information will be given you and you are under no obligation. Send it in now.

Only 21 Offer Thus Far for War Bond Aid

With at least 1,000 volunteers needed to help the Office of Civilian Defense make its $5,000,000 E-bon quota, only 21 citizens of Fulton and DeKalb counties have volunteered their services, according to information received yesterday from OGD officials.

Mothers, fathers, wives, sisters, brothers, and even children of men and women in uniform are particularly urged to give a few hours of their time to provide the armed services with tanks, planes and guns and ships.

Of the 21, several of the volunteers are former air raid wardens who had slipped onto the inactive list and now wish to renew their activities. Officials said that OGD personnel here has dropped 25 per cent since the last drive, which ended in December.

The 11 members of service star families who added their names to the honor list yesterday are: Mrs. Cora Taylor, of 1197 Avon avenue, S. W.; Harry W. McWhorter, of 1157 Arlington avenue, S. W.; Mrs. A. C. Crymes, of 875 Capitol avenue, S. W.; Mrs. Doris Gamel, of 165 Memorial drive, S. E.; Miss Doris Hughes, of 400 Luckie street, N. W.; Harry C. Malone, of 223 15th street, N. E.; Mrs. J. H. Mayfield, of 422 Ponce de Leon avenue, N. E.; Mrs. Jack Jamieson, of 1774 Monroe drive, N. E.; Mrs. John Ulerly, of 3758 Vermont road, N. E.; Mrs. C. W. Sweetman, of 128 Ormond street, S. E.; and Mrs. Ethel M. Burgess, of 308 Home Park avenue, N. W.

"If you're one who can't go over, then come across" as the bond posters say, "help us out on our enterprise of jobs in the Seventh War Loan, beginning May 14. Telephone your name and address in to JA. 7311 or JA. 6284, or fill out the accompanying coupon and mail it to Pup Phillips, C. & S. building, Atlanta 3, for further information about your part in the drive."

ARNALL TO SPEAK TODAY

Departed Heroes in Gray Remembered With Pride

"Lest we forget." By memorial services and by closing of business houses, Atlanta pays tribute today to the men who gave their lives for the cause of the Confederacy.

Principal Memorial Day program honoring "the men in gray"—to begin at 3 p. m.—will feature an address by Gov. Arnall at Oakland cemetery.

All Atlanta banks, except the Federal Reserve Bank, will be closed, as will the state capitol and the city hall. The city's department stores will close at 1 p. m. COL. COLLINS TO PRESIDE

Sponsored by the Atlanta Ladies' Memorial Association, the Oakland cemetery program will be presided over by Col. R. W. Collins, commander of the Georgia State Guard.

The ceremony will replace the usual parade through downtown Atlanta. Following the pledge to the American flag, led by Lt. Frances M. Groverman, WAVE, and singing of the "Star-Spangled Banner," Capt. Maurice Slaughter, Marine Corps Women's Reserve, will give this salute to the Confederate flag: "I salute the Confederate flag with affection, reverence and undying remembrance."

ARNALL TO SPEAK
Hugh Howell, Atlanta attorney, will introduce Gov. Arnall. Dr. Lester Rumble, pastor of St. Mark Methodist church, will pronounce the invocation and the benediction; the Georgia State Guard band will provide music.

Wreath presentations will be made by Jordan Keith, of the Old Guard, and John A. Manget, commander of the Sons of Confederate Veterans. Mrs. Robert B. Blackburn will speak on "In Memoriam—the Confederates." Miss Kathleen Mitchell will introduce Confederate veterans present at the ceremony.

A firing squad from Georgia Military Academy will fire a salute, and a GMA bugler will play "Taps."

DECATUR'S OBSERVANCE
Memorial Day in Decatur will be celebrated at a sunrise breakfast at 7:30 a. m., given by the Anna S. Fulton chapter, Children of the Confederacy. It will be followed by a brief meeting and the placing of flags and flowers

Poor Digestion? ☐
Headachy? ☐
Sour or Upset? ☐
Tired-Listless? ☐

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? Feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable. Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills are the only pills that do so in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better. Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 25¢.

5. GENTLE REGULATION. Delicious ALL-BRAN is a great natural regulating cereal. Millions of people eat it regularly. Satisfactory laxation usually results from eating one ounce of ALL-BRAN daily and drinking plenty of water.

ALL-BRAN gives all these important benefits because it is made from the vital outer layers of the wheat.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN—made from Vital Outer Layers of finest wheat

Nature concentrates in the skin of the potato and the peel of the apple essential protective elements found in these foods. In the vital outer layers of wheat, too, Nature concentrates some of the grain's most important nutrients. Wheat's vital outer layers (from which KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is made) are more abundant, ounce for ounce, in many essential food elements than whole wheat itself.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is wonderful to eat—triple-milled for golden softness. Give your family the 5 great benefits KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN provides.

1. IRON—to help make good red blood. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is one of the few foods that are rich in readily assimilable iron. Ounce for ounce, it actually provides 11 times the available iron of spinach.

2. OTHER MINERALS—to help build bone and teeth. Weight for weight, ALL-BRAN gives 4 times as much phosphorus as whole wheat—and almost 3 times as much calcium.

3. VITAMINS—to help guard against deficiencies. Ounce for ounce, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN provides 3 times as much B<sub>2</sub>, 4 times as much niacin, and just as much B<sub>1</sub>, as whole wheat.

4. PROTEIN—to help build body tissue. Quality in protein is of great importance. ALL-BRAN provides high-quality protein.

New Methodist Church Elects Rev. L. M. Willard as Its Head

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

The Rev. Leo M. Willard, of Florence, S. C., last night was elected president of the two annual conferences of the newly organized Southern Methodist Church, after the meeting at the Henry Grady hotel had decided to call the presiding officer by that title instead of the title of bishop.

The new church was organized by Methodists objecting to the merger of the northern and southern branches of the Methodist Episcopal Church and in opposition to alleged modernism in the merged parent church. Delegates said that the new church will have a nucleus of 6,000 members, but that a landslide was anticipated.

After wrangling over the report of the discipline committee yesterday afternoon, the meeting closed in a confused state.

"PENTECOSTAL DAY"

Delegates determined to spend the period between the afternoon and night sessions in prayer. The night session was termed a Pentecostal day, with the power of the Holy Spirit hovering over it.

7 Dead, Many Hurt in Storms Over Georgia, 2 Other States

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

A series of severe wind, hail and rainstorms swept over three southern states Tuesday night and early yesterday, resulting in a death toll of seven and many persons injured.

Damages were estimated in the thousands of dollars as reports of homes destroyed and damaged, crops cut down by hail and telephone and telegraph circuits blown down poured into disaster headquarters of the American Red Cross in Atlanta.

The greatest loss of life was reported in Georgia, although most of the property damage was located in Alabama, and much damage in Louisiana.

FOUR DEAD NEAR GRIFFIN

Four persons were killed almost immediately near Griffin, while two others later died of their injuries. The dead included two children of Fletcher Brown, Martha, 11, and Jimmy, 9; Mrs. Maude Quigley Quick, of Concord, and her sister, Miss Edna Quigley; Thomas Lyons and Henry Bass Huff. Herschel Post Jr. died at Griffin later.

The two children died when their home was blown down, while Mrs. Quick and Lyons died when the mill in which they were working was unroofed. Miss Quigley and Huff, also injured in the mill, later died of their injuries. The tornado did not strike Griffin, although the city was plunged into darkness and communications paralyzed. Numerous homes were damaged and trees blocked highways.

"BAMA PEACH CROP HIT"

In Alabama, fear was expressed that the Chilton county peach crop, which had prospects of being the best in years, was seriously cut by a severe hailstorm. The oats crop in Elmore county was said to be "ruined," and 100 homes were estimated as damaged in the Wallsburg section of the county. The Louisville & Nashville railroad just south of Clanton was washed out, and a cloudburst put Clanton and Coopers, eight miles south, under several feet of water for a short time.

Many trees were blown down in Montgomery, Wetumpka, Prattville, Rockford and other towns. The entire area suffered from power and communication disruptions and roads were blocked in many rural areas.

"BRICKBAT" HAILSTONES

Alabama Highway Patrolman J. M. Kreis, who was driving between Rockford and Wetumpka, said hailstones as "big as brickbats" dented his car like it had been beaten with a sledgehammer.

An average wind velocity of about 50 miles an hour was reported by several stations to the Montgomery weather bureau, but gusts of up to 70 miles an hour were recorded at Selma and Gunter Field.

In Atlanta and suburbs hundreds of telephones went "out" from lightning and flooded cables. Local weather bureau officials reported the wind here reached 40 miles per hour.

Storm damage also was reported from Crenshaw and Monroe counties, Alabama; Ft. Gaines, Ga.; Newton county, Georgia, and Avoyelles parish, Louisiana. At the latter point, hail caused heavy crop damage, four homes were destroyed and 26 damaged.

At Covington it was reported yesterday that 19 houses in Newton county were badly damaged by a windstorm that struck the section, and J. L. Elliott, local Red Cross chapter chairman, said at least 100 persons had been made homeless and property damage would total $35,000.

He said the disaster relief committee of the Red Cross was already active in aiding the distressed families. Many of the homes were near Covington and were occupied by families who worked in and around the city.

No loss of life or serious injuries were reported.

The wind was widespread over the county, much damage being done to roofs, porches and out-houses.

incorporated in the new church's discipline.

Important and radical modifications are made in that local and individual churches alone shall hold titles to property, with titles vested in local trustees with stipulation that properties shall be used exclusively in connection with the Southern Methodist church's operations, and under the sole direction of the pastor in charge and under state laws. The general conference would own no property whatsoever, save larger connectional enterprises.

The Methodist social creed, as embodied in the 1934 discipline, pertaining to war and conscientious objectors, is repealed, with each individual empowered to act in the matters named for himself.

NO WOMAN PREACHERS

Stating very emphatically there will be no women preachers in the new Southern Methodist church, also the terms "district superintendent" and "presiding elder" will be completely abrogated. Elaborate bureaus for promoting youth work are to be eliminated, with the Epworth League named as the sole authority in that realm.

Each annual conference, according to the discipline proposed, is to have a president, who, with a committee of six ministers and laymen equally divided, will make all pastoral appointments, with the provision that no appointments are to be made save as endorsed by three-fourths of the committee. A similar committee on conference relations is to be established, whose recommendations were to be overruled only by a two-thirds majority.

John A. Manget, leading Atlanta Southern Methodist layman, told the general conference yesterday that life insurance policies in the amount of $2,000 each had been taken out for all the preachers of the new church. Payment of the policies will be made with payment at time of death, and $400 each year for four years following.

Boy Scout Fund

RICHLAND, Ga., April 25.—Charlie Miller, chairman of the recent drive in Richland for the purpose of raising $300 to be used in Boy Scout work, reports that $348 was contributed.

FASHION NOTE: BAGGY PANTS

LONDON, April 25.—(UP)

Men's fashion note from the Evening Star: British women are now buying laundered flour bags and making them into summer pants for their husbands. One bag, which costs from 50 to 60 cents, makes one pair of pants and saves three coupons.

'Lawsonic' Takes GIs by Storm; Soldier Cast

By PAUL JONES.

"Lawsonic and Old Lace," a play in five scenes, written by Capt. Robert Earle and acted by an all-GI cast, made a howlingly successful debut before an audience of wounded GIs at Lawson General Hospital's Red Cross hall last night.

The play, a series of skits satirizing Army life with a musical background, moved at a fast pace—almost too fast, for it only lasted 40 minutes—and the amputees and other wounded soldiers voiced their unanimous approval with several minutes of loud and boisterous applause.

The cast was made up of veterans of the New York stage and Hollywood and several of the vocalists showed that they were not at all new to the game. GI Alfred Robinson did the lyrics to a catchy number, "My Squad," in good voice, and Edward James contributed another laugh provoker, "I'm a Lousy Private and She's a Second Louie." Larry Davidson also made a hit with the soldier audience when he sang "Have You Ever," a beautiful ballad from the pen of Capt. Earle.

Capt. Earle said he planned to lengthen the play and add another tune or two and offer it for civilian consumption at the Erlanger at a later date. I hope he does, since it has the makings of a good show. The music is exceptional.

SALLY FORTH Says: R. O. T. C. Officers Choose Sponsors at North Fulton

When the student body of North Fulton High school gathers on the parade ground next Wednesday for the regimental parade, the bevy of young girls selected as sponsors will resemble a bouquet of beautiful roses. Each girl will wear a white dress, a white cartwheel hat, and will be presented a bouquet of long-stemmed American Beauty roses. Can you envision the lovely picture they will make as they stand with the stalwart officers of the R. O. T. C. for this auspicious event, which is one of the highlights of the school calendar?

The parade will follow the annual government military inspection, which initiates the events preceding commencement and the close of school.

ATLANTA AT THE FRONT

The worst catastrophe that can happen to men on the fighting front is to run out of ammunition and supplies. Such a situation recently confronted Maj. Dewey Nabors, U. S. Medical Corps, who is serving on the western front in Germany. The casualties were pouring in and the wounded men were in dire need of bandages. The medical men were just wondering what they would do without them, when a supply truck rolled in loaded with Red Cross supplies.

They offered up silent and reverent thanks to the Red Cross, and tore into the packages. Imagine Maj. Nabors' surprise when out of the first packet of bandages he opened fell a label which read: "Made by the surgical dressings unit of the Red Cross, Atlanta, Ga."

DO YOU KNOW?

That three times as many boys as girls won ribbons at the Spring Street school flower show this week, in addition to the sweepstakes winner being Devery Thomas, a fourth-grade boy? . . . That a well-known Atlanta couple planned an informal cocktail party recently and each, thinking the other had invited the guests, had everything in readiness for the affair and no one attended? . . . That Margaret Winship, now in Italy with the Red Cross, is expected to return to the States next month and that her marriage to Sgt. Penn Cooley, of Lawrenceville, will take place in the early summer? . . . That students at the R. L. Hope school have sold $957.49 worth of paper for the war effort since September? . . . and that Mrs. Bond Almand and Mrs. Thomas Cassells were in charge of the sale which was conducted by the 600 grammar school children? . . . That Capt. Ray Taylor, who recently returned after 27 months overseas for a visit to his wife, Beverly Bailey Taylor, and his young son, Ray Jr., has had his leave extended? . . . That Ira Ferguson Jr., son of Col. and Mrs. Ira Ferguson, took a competitive examination and won a scholarship to Vanderbilt University? . . . and that Mac Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Hart, took the Southern Presbyterian Church southeastern examination and won a scholarship to Davidson College?

Miss Bowdre Budd, Ens. Poer Announce Plans and Parties

Paramount interest is centered today in the announcement of the wedding plans of Miss Bowdre Budd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Budd, and Ens. John Poer, USNR, who will be married on May 8 at St. Luke's church by Bishop John Moore Walker and Rev. Milton Richardson.

Miss Budd, who will be given in marriage by her father, has chosen her sister, Miss Mary Budd, as her maid of honor. Matron of honor will be Mrs. H. P. Persons Jr., of Fort Myers, Fla. The bridesmaids will include Misses Tatty Shipp, Hollis Rawson, Harriet Smith, Palmour Holmes, Cortez Cooledge and Mrs. E. Jordan Callaway.

Dr. Norman Poer Jr. will serve as his brother's best man, and the ushers will be H. Lane Young, Dr. Walter Holmes, George Campbell Jr., Archibald Gann, Gilbert Beers and William A. Smith.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Budd will entertain at a reception at the Piedmont Driving Club. The bride's book will be kept by Miss Betty Brown.

On Friday Mrs. Harrison Jones will entertain at a luncheon in honor of her cousin, Miss Budd, at her home on West Pace's Ferry road. The guests will include, besides the honoree Mrs. James Budd, Misses Hollis Rawson, Cortez Cooledge, Betty Brown, Lucy Bryant and Mrs. Rucker Todd III. That afternoon Miss Betty Brown will entertain at a linen shower at her home on Oxford road.

Following the wedding rehearsal on May 7 the ushers will entertain at a dinner party at the Piedmont Driving Club in honor of Miss Budd and Ens. Poer. Others who will entertain for Miss Budd include Mrs. Frank Allcorn, Mrs. Howell Cobb and Miss Katherine Rannels, who will entertain for Mrs. Jordan Callaway also.

7th District Rally To Be Held Friday

MY DAY . . . By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Tuesday.—Last night my feet ached, because all day long I had stood saying to people: "Yes, that trunk goes in such and such a room. . . . Those things go into the dining room. . . . Those can stay in the hall." In the meantime, Miss Thompson did the same thing at the cottage until, she said, her back ached. Both of us ran up and downstairs many times during the day and called each other on the telephone trying to decide where different things went.

Tomorrow the San Francisco conference will open. My husband and I had looked forward to traveling leisurely across the country. When I asked him why he really wanted to go all that distance for one day, he said: "I am going to pray over the delegates."

I think that is the way we are all approaching this important conference. For a long time we have been building points of contact where the United Nations could work on some specific thing in unison. The organization of food for the world, the organization of rehabilitation and relief, world labor problems, world educational problems—all these have been steppingstones. Delegates from many nations have discussed these problems one at a time. Early meetings of the leaders of the great nations laid a greater stress on plans for winning the war, but lately they have begun to envision the broad lines of peace on which all the nations might work together.

Now, at last, we come to the San Francisco meeting, the purpose of which is not to write in detail all the plans for the future. Rather, it is merely to set up an organization before which, at a later time, these problems of peace will come up for discussion.

Someone said to me the other day that in the past we relied so completely as a nation upon my husband in international matters that perhaps more of us would now recognize our duty to carry some of the burden ourselves. Instead of being satisfied just to follow, we would take a more active interest. I know that President Truman and our secretary of state, Mr. Stettinius, together with the other members of our delegation, will do all they possibly can to bring about a co-operative spirit among the delegates and to set up a framework within which we can work in the future.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS

March 21-April 19 (ARIES).—The period between 12 noon and 6:45 p. m. does not especially favor signing of contracts or entering into new agreements. After 6:45 p. m. appears to be the better part of the day for entering into agreements and signing papers.

April 20-May 20 (TAURUS).—Personal affairs and interests of a wider scope may show a tendency toward strain, animosity, or you may incline to overdo. Therefore the day does not especially favor new beginnings.

May 21-June 20 (GEMINI).—The entire day will be an auspicious one to find support and attain favors. Plan to go after the things you desire in finance, professional and literary pursuits. An excellent day for making progress and accomplishing something toward your highest ideal. Good will and co-operation should be easily attained.

June 21-July 22 (CANCER).—Before 1:03 p. m. holds conservative influences, favoring affairs of a substantial nature. You may have opportunities to accomplish something toward your highest ideal. Good will and co-operation should be easily attained.

July 23-Aug. 22 (LEO).—Depressive influences may prevail today. Be determined in the face of difficulties. Keep cheerful regardless of the best aspects of the day operate after 11 a. m. A favorable day for work and ideas of a humanitarian nature.

Sept. 23-Oct. 22 (LIBRA).—During the morning hours and until 4:30 p. m. is a favorable time for obtaining the confidence of people who are in power. After 4:30 p. m. the calmness of the morning seems displaced with a feeling of impatience. A good time to stick to routine.

Oct. 23-Nov. 21 (SCORPIO).—Previous to noon favors dealings with those in advanced or superior positions. If you want to attain a material or business triumph, see what you can do about it this morning. During the remainder of the day more will be accomplished by acting with deliberation.

Nov. 22-Dec. 21 (SAGITTARIUS).—A favorable day for making friends with older and conservative people, for contacting those who are dependable and steadfast. An excellent time for the promotion of plans that have been in the making for some time.

Dec. 22-Jan. 19 (CAPRICORN).—Before 8:43 a. m. many of your ideas will be worth putting to the test of experience, for you will be filled with considerable intuition as to the exact thing to do.

Jan. 20-Feb. 18 (AQUARIUS).—The keen interest and alertness you feel today may give you a desire to lead on, or you may feel a desire to begin new ideas. Turn this energy to matters of great import, rather than beginning new ideas.

Feb. 19-March 20 (PISCES).—There will be a lessening of tension both in your personal feelings and in dealings with others today. Before 9:11 p. m. you can deal with serious-minded people advantageously and your mind will feel at ease when concentrating on the work at hand.

LOUELLA PARSONS REPORTS

Ingrid Leaves Hollywood To Star in Broadway Play

HOLLYWOOD, April 25.—(INS)—Straight from Ingrid Bergman herself comes confirmation that she is not signing with David Selznick but is going to take a year out of her screen life to star on Broadway. The play is "That Girl From Orleans" and Maxwell Anderson, famed producer and author, is here and the papers are all signed, sealed and delivered.

Ingrid tells me that the story is naturally about Joan of Arc, and that she hopes to go into rehearsal in June. "Of course," she said, "I have given Mr. Selznick my word that I will do 'Notorious' and 'Scarlet Lily' when he has them ready. I feel I have enough pictures to last me a year, and it is a good time for me to return to the stage." She says if Selznick has good pictures she will make them for him, just as she does for any other producer, but she is not remaining as an exclusive Selznick star.

When Otto Preminger told me that he had signed Dorothy Gish for a major character part in "Centennial Summer," I thought of how slim and young and pretty she looked on the stage in "Life With Father" and said, "What do you mean 'character' part?" With Dorothy heading back to the screen and Lillian already here and faring well, the two Gishs are right back where they started their film careers years ago, in Hollywood. "Centennial Summer" won't get going for three or four months because, meantime, Preminger has "Fallen Angel" to complete.

That long simmering deal for Teresa Wright to make a picture at Paramount has finally cooked. Henry Ginsberg has settled on "Too Good To Be True," a newspaper story with a high comedy background for Teresa. Co-starring with her are Brian Donlevy and Ray Milland—Brian playing a hardboiled managing editor and Ray a straight laced professor who gets caught in their high-jinks. Ruth McKinnery, who wrote "My Sister Ellen," authored "Too Good To Be True"—so I can believe it's a funny yarn.

All this talk about Kathleen Winsor being tested at this and that studio, is according to the lady herself, just publicity. She says she has never been tested and while there has been talk that she might be photogenic, no one has tried to find out. But that hasn't kept her from being crazy enough about Hollywood to take $70,000 for her "Forever Amber" money and buying house in fashionable Holmby hills. Speaking of "Forever Amber," Paulette Goddard was at a dinner the other evening and I heard her say to Darryl Zanuck, "I made my last picture for you 'Forever Amber.' Darryl said 'See you.'"

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Anne Baxter will be in New York when Richard Derr, her former heart interest, gets there on leave. Wait and see what happens; Heiress Gloria Vanderbilt, who has never liked Los Angeles, will have the two Gishs here. Leopold Stokowski. He has a summer engagement to fulfill at the Hollywood Bowl.

The WORRY CLINIC By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

If you were a visitor from Mars, sent here to analyze our literature, and devoid of any bias or sectarian prejudice, which volume would you take home to represent the most significant history of the human race on the planet Earth?

Case F.253: Flossie D., aged 23, is a school teacher who smokes cigarettes and enjoys night clubs.

"You have often urged more study of the Bible," she said after I had addressed her state teachers' convention.

"I admit that it is a famous book, but in these hectic times, I feel that it is out of date. There are so many modern books which our pupils don't study sufficiently, that I don't approve of taking up valuable time to have them read the Bible."

Suppose we view the Bible as if we were visitors from this planet from Mars, and simply wished to discover which one of the millions of printed books had proved most significant.

Among the various authors whose works might be compared would be Shakespeare, Goethe, Victor Hugo, Emerson and others.

Do any business men devote a couple of months each year to window displays based on events described by Shakespeare? Or Goethe or Hugo?

But Christmas and Easter exercise a big influence in the retail business field. They originate in the Bible.

Is the country dotted with important real estate sites in every village or city, with elaborate stone buildings erected thereon to characters described by Shakespeare or Emerson, Hugo or Goethe?

But there is scarcely a hamlet that doesn't have a church spire pointing skyward. The churches are derived from the Bible.

Millions of people congregate every Sunday for one or two hours to do honor to a character in which book? One of Shakespeare's or Emerson's, or Goethe's or Hugo's? Not at all, but to the leading character in the Bible.

Suppose we look at the colleges and universities. Are any of these a result of the excellent writings of Shakespeare or Goethe or Hugo or Emerson? But a majority of these are named after churches, rooted in the Bible.

How about the hospitals, or the YMCA and YWCA, the CYO and other constructive organizations? And the Salvation Army?

JUDGED BY THEIR FRUITS Visit the art museums of this country, and see how many paintings are based on characters portrayed by Shakespeare or Hugo or Emerson or Goethe. Biblical scenes and characters dominate art.

Listen to the music that has stood the test of time. Extract the thousands of hymns or other religious inspired music, and what is left? Did Shakespeare or Goethe or Hugo or Emerson leave much imprint on the music of the world?

Go into a great country like China or India. You will find a little band of half a million people in a population of four hundred million. This little band, headed by Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-shek, read a certain book and direct their lives by its precepts.

Are they Shakespeare fans, or devotees of a volume by Emerson or Hugo or Goethe? What is the name of that book that now is directing the destiny of China? It is called the Bible.

Apart from its intrinsic poetry and prose, which are of slight national or racial value, the Bible has thus proved to be the most influential volume ever produced. No person, even though atheistic or pagan, can consider himself truly educated, therefore, if he is unfamiliar with its contents.

MRS. CHARLES A. MOYE JR.

Miss Johnston Weds Mr. Moye

At a recent candlelight ceremony held in the chapel of Glenn Memorial church, Miss Sarah Ellen Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Grady Johnston, of Newnan, became the bride of Charles Allen Moye Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Moye Sr., of Atlanta. Dr. W. Lee Cuts performed the ceremony. A musical program was presented by Mrs. Allen Vickery.

Mrs. Harry O. Dean Jr., cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a pink taffeta gown and carried a nosegay of pink roses and blue delphinium.

The bridegroom had as his best man, his father, C. A. Moye Sr. The ushers were Allan B. Morton Jr., uncle of the bridegroom, and James Sims Wilson Jr.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory brocade satin. Her veil of tulle was held by clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents on Cornell Road. Assisting in entertaining were Mrs. J. R. Childs and Mrs. E. C. Moore. Mrs. T. A. B. Suttles kept the bride's book.

Mr. and Mrs. Moye left for a wedding trip to New Orleans.

Schedule Given For Day Camping

Day camping for Atlanta Camp Fire Girls this summer will include a varied and comprehensive program, according to plans announced by Mrs. Elmer C. Becker, field secretary in charge of day camps.

Campers living in the woods in small groups with girls their own age and at least two trained counselors is an important part of the day camp program. The program includes swimming, hiking, outdoor cooking, nature activities, arts and crafts, singing, folk-dancing and dramatics.

Although this is a Camp Fire project, all girls are invited to attend the day camps. Registered camp Fire Girls are given the preference at Adams Park and the College Park camp, but at the other camps no difference is made.

The following day camps are to be held: senior camp for teen-agers at North Fulton, June 12-20; College Park, June 4-15; four days a week for two weeks; Grant Park, June 11-22, five days a week for two weeks; Fernbank, July 9-Aug. 3, five days a week for a month; Maddox, July 23-Aug. 3, five days a week for two weeks; Adams Park, July 2-13, five days a week for two weeks.

A training course for Blue Bird leaders will be held at Camp Fire headquarters today from 10:30 to 12:30. The course will be based on how to make use of community resources in the Blue Bird program.

The committee on Camp Fire Awards will meet at the Y. W. C. A. Saturday from 10:30 to 12:30. The committee is composed of Mesdames Luther Allen, Thomas Elridge, F. M. Swanson, and H. Y. McCord. Girls wishing to qualify for the various Camp Fire ranks will attend.

Lovett School To Give Carnival on Saturday

The Lovett school carnival will be held at the school on Wesley road, Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. There will be pony rides and games of all kinds for the enjoyment of the children.

Alliance Francaise

The Alliance Francaise will meet today at 3:30 o'clock at the home of Misses Caroline and Louise Sisson and Miss Laura Landon at 2249 Wisteria Way.

Miss Ritter To Address Club On Dumbarton Oaks Parley

On Friday evening, at 7 o'clock, in the Henry Grady hotel, the Business and Professional Women's Club will hold a special meeting, a feature of which will be a talk by Mrs. Alan Ritter, of the American Association of University Women, on the timely subject of Dumbarton Oaks.

Mrs. Ritter is recognized as one of the best informed people in the city on Dumbarton Oaks proposals. Her talks were highlights of the recent sessions at the Ansley hotel, which were sponsored by 12 leading civic organizations.

Miss Addie Lou Gilbert, as program co-ordinator of the club, announces that Mrs. Ritter's talk will be followed by a question and answer period under the guidance of Mrs. Ethel B. Watson, the chairman, and Mrs. Odessa Henderson, co-chairman of the International Relations committee.

The second half of the program will be presented by the public affairs committee, of which Mrs. Anne Nolan is chairman, and Mrs. Mamie K. Taylor, co-chairman, and features Charles C. McGonegal, disabled veteran of the first World War. Mr. McGonegal is touring the country under the financial sponsorship of the American Legion, visiting amputation centers to demonstrate to wounded men that their disabilities need not bar them from an active and useful life.

There will be a 10-minute interval between the parts of the program, during which the membership committee, headed by Miss Mildred Selman, will serve as the hospitality group.

53 YEARS OF SERVICE JNO. L. MOORE & SONS, INC. 70 FORSYTH ST. N.W.

Just what would folks do whose rooms are badly in need of painting, were it not for Perma-Tone? They're just plain lucky, if you want the truth, to have available a quality paint which can be applied by any adult member of the family. And don't think it is not being done by well-to-do people who find it increasingly difficult to secure professional painters.

Perma-Tone is a cold water paint that covers most wallpapers and practically any or all other surfaces with one coat. One gallon of Perma-Tone ($2.75) is quantity sufficient to cover the average-size room. Mixing one gallon of Perma-Tone with half-gallon of plain water right out of the hydrant makes 1½ gallons of ready-to-apply paint which can be rolled on or brushed on, as you prefer doing it.

Ki Ki's Secret Weapon

A good, hearty laugh always has been and always will be an excellent tonic. Something that tickles the funnybone of a man makes him forget his worries long enough to ease the tension that has been built up in him and make him relax.

An unworried man will do a better job. And so it is that Ki Ki Cuyler, starting his second year as manager of the Atlanta Crackers tomorrow night in Chattanooga, possesses a secret weapon in his well-stocked store of baseball stories, accumulated in two decades of playing and managing.

Cuyler had his and generals alike in stitches during the Crackers' recent sojourn to Fort Benning, and he usually dresses himself of a good yarn or two to his players in the dressing room or before a game in the dugout. Few have the gift of putting them over like the inimitable Atlanta skipper.

His favorite stories are the true ones. Here's one he was telling on one of his favorite characters, Cotton Tierney, when the latter was with Brooklyn. He had just been traded by Pittsburgh to the Dodgers, then managed by Uncle Wilbert Robinson.

"Moose" Clabaugh, a good hitter and terrible fielder, had just been acquired by the Dodgers and widely advertised as a cure-all for what ailed Brooklyn. A morning paper headline screamed, "Clabaugh To Play Double-Header Today."

The infamous "Moose" proceeded to miss a few flies and kick the ball all over right field. However, Brooklyn had a two-run lead going into the late innings, and Uncle Robby sent Tierney into the outfield to replace Clabaugh.

Tierney misjudged a fly that thudded against the signs and bounded back past him toward the infield. Before the infielder was over he had dropped another fly and let a ground ball get through him.

When the teams changed sides Pittsburgh had a two-run lead and the fans were riding Uncle Robby and Tierney unmercifully. "What in the world's the matter with you?" Robby roared at Tierney as he passed the coach's box.

"Aw, hell, Robby," that Clabaugh's got right field in terrible shape," was Tierney's comeback.

Habit Forming Another of Ki Ki's pet tales also deals with Tierney, who usually could hit Ray Kramer, Pittsburgh pitcher, with his eyes closed. On this particular day, however, he was having a bad day against the Pirate flinger.

The first time he came to bat Pie Traynor, Pirate third baseman, played in close on the grass and nipped Tierney by a step at first base before he hit a dribbler into the dirt.

"You'd better play deep this time, or I'll knock your teeth out with one," Cotton advised Pie on his next trip. This time he hit an even punier roller and Traynor threw him out at first.

On his third trip he told Traynor, "I'm gonna hold my hands apart like Ty Cobb and blast one through you." The result was the same. Pie tossed him out again.

The fourth time up Tierney lifted a fluke humpbacked fly that Traynor caught, whereupon the harassed Dodger walked over toward third base and queried, "Tell me, Pie, how do you know how to play me?"

AAC Honors Alex Members of the Atlanta Athletic Club will pay homage to the "Grand Old Man," W. A. Alexander, at a testimonial dinner for him at the club starting at 6:30 o'clock tonight.

Alex, a director of the club for many years, will be the center of attraction as old friends gather to honor him on this particular day, all throughout the years to build Atlanta youngsters into worthwhile citizens, strong of body, mind and character.

There is little of a laudatory nature that can be said of Alex that has not already been said somewhere before, and said better, perhaps, but to us the love and respect of the many hundreds who have come under his guidance in his 25 years as football coach at Georgia Tech are the beacons that best illuminate his greatness.

Col. R. P. (Bob) Jones and W. C. Harris are in charge of the fete for Alexander, who as athletic director at the Flats is currently wholeheartedly engaged in developing and expanding the huge student athletic program at Georgia Tech.

We never knew of the appointment, even if he were a fourth-stringer, who wouldn't fight if a disparaging remark were aimed at Alex. That's tribute enough for us.

Happy (?) Chandler They may be calling him "Unhappy" Chandler after he spends a few months or years as high commissioner of A. B. (Happy) Chandler, 46-year-old United States senator from Kentucky, as high commissioner of baseball to succeed the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

Chandler was quite an athlete in his younger days. He was an All-Kentucky basketball player at Transylvania and also a first-rate quarterback in football. He later was a basketball coach and played minor league baseball before turning to politics.

All of which, of course, has absolutely nothing at all to do with his ability to fathom the intricacies of the problems that will beset him as baseball's second czar during the years of the immediate future when postwar boom times are quite apt to make the job a "killer," as Leslie O'Connor, Landis' secretary, recently termed the post.

The minor league heads, having been denied a voice in the naming of the new commissioner, are a bit lukewarm to the whole business but hoping for the best. At any rate, they join the rest of the sports world in saying, "Congratulations, Happy. We wish you luck."

Mike Raffa The battling batter from Fort Benning, proved to be just as potent as his supporters said he was and then some. Fighting in the scheduled 10-round main go on last night's boxing card at the city auditorium, Cherry Point Marines and Duke in Atlanta this campaign. The winners will move on to New Orleans where they will encounter Tulane's racketmen Saturday afternoon.

Raffa floored O'Brien twice in the first round and then put him down for keeps with a left hook in the second frame. The blond Bomber knocked out Lester O'Brien, 134 pounds, of Charlotte, N. C., after 30 seconds of action in the second round.

Raffa floored O'Brien twice in the first round and then put him down for keeps with a left hook in the second frame. The blond Bomber knocked out Lester O'Brien, 134 pounds, of Charlotte, N. C., after 30 seconds of action in the second round.

In the semi-main event, Bobby LaLonde, of Charleston, S. C., showed plenty of class in whipping Baskin Bradley, of Charlotte, N. C. The Charleston lightweight won on a TKO when Bradley's seconds tossed in the towel in the fifth round. LaLonde scored two knockdowns in the opening round and then floored Bradley for the count of nine in the second.

The opener, a scheduled four-rounder between lightweights Slapsee Maxie Fernandez and Al Lawson, went to Lawson on a TKO in the second round. Fernandez received a bad cut over his right eye and the referee stopped the bout.

The six-round heavyweight tussle went to Joe Armstrong, Chattanooga, by a decision over Lew Jenkins, Louisville, Ky. Johnny Joseph, Montgomery, middleweight, won a decision over Jackie Hart, Chattanooga, in the other six-rounder. Joseph scored a knockdown in the fifth.

Burrows Shines in Relief Role

Crackers Defeat Naval Station 2d Straight, 8-4

By F. M. WILLIAMS

"Lefty" John Burrows, who reported late and extremely fat this spring, is rounding into the condition that made him the Southern League's most effective relief pitcher last season.

Burrows proved that last night when he took over in the sixth inning for Shelby Kinney and proceeded to stop the Atlanta Naval Air Station without a hit as the Crackers took a second straight victory, 8 to 4.

About 1,200 fans, contributing several truck loads of old clothes for distribution in war-devastated countries recently liberated by American and other Allied troops, witnessed the fray.

Burrows' hurling was the only outstanding thing about the game, which could be better described as a kicking contest.

The Navy did the most kicking, making eight errors, and that was what helped the score. Atlanta fielders contributed four miscues.

Kinney, although hit rather freely, was the winning hurler, the Crackers held a 5-4 lead when he left the game.

Jack (Red) Hollis, promising young infielder, was the only Atlanta player getting more than one hit. He had two of the seven the Crackers gathered off Duck Messina.

Navy collected six hits, but no player had more than one to his credit.

Line score: 202 000 000-4 8 8

Rugged Sailor To Battle Dillon On Friday Card

Paul Jones announced yesterday that he had added another bout to his all-star heavyweight wrestling card scheduled for Friday night at the city auditorium, making five matches in all to be contested.

The added attraction will feature Lt. Hoja Burnell, of the Navy from Jacksonville, against Rowdy Jack Dillon, Chattanooga.

Lt. Burnell is scheduled to leave for sea duty shortly and asked Jones for an opportunity to appear here before Atlanta fans. He is on a short furlough. Burnell weighs 225 pounds and at one time held the South American heavyweight title. He is a graduate of Oklahoma A. & M. where he held many collegiate grappling championships. This match is expected to prove one of the features of the program.

The top bout on the card will bring together Al Massey and Bouncing Babe Zaharias in a rough-and-tumble, winner-take-all skirmish.

Tarzan White and Irish Jack Kelly will collide in a one fall to a finish bout which will occupy the semi-main event. Other matches will find Duke Kapalanis clashing with Fritz Schnable and Sailor Bartow Hill battling Ben Bennicassa.

NGIC Trackmen Compete May 11

The annual NGIC track and field meet will be held on Friday, May 11, on the Russell High track, it was announced by officials yesterday. Starting time will be 2 P. M.

No performer will be allowed to compete in more than two events and the relay race. Each school will be permitted to enter only two men in each event.

All events usually held in track meets, with the exception of the high hurdles, will be included in the program.

Williams vs. Joyce

NEW YORK, April 25.—(P)—Like Williams, recently crowned National Boxing Association lightweight champion, will meet Willie Joyce in a 10-round non-title bout at Madison Square June 8. Promoter Mike Jacobs announced today.

Handball Finals

CHICAGO, April 25.—(P)—Joe Platak, Chicago, and Frank Coyle, New York City, defending champion, will meet tomorrow afternoon for the National AAU singles handball championship.

Passeau Bats, Hurls Cubs to 4-0 Win

CINCINNATI, April 25.—(P)—Claude Passeau pitched and batted Chicago to a 4-0 decision over Cincinnati today, homering in the third, then singling in one of two seventh inning runs, while holding the Reds to five hits.

Passeau's circuit blow came with one out. In the seventh, Peanut Lowry opened with a double, went to third on Kermit Wahl's high return of Don Johnson's grounder and tallied as Passeau hit safely to center. Johnson, advancing to third, scored on Stan Hack's fly. Johnson added the fourth run in the ninth on a walk, a sacrifice and Hack's single.

Plans are being formulated by Frank Troutman, newly elected president of the University of Georgia Alumni Association to hold a gigantic meeting in Atlanta some time in the near future.

Mr. Troutman is serving his second term as president of Bulldog alumni and already is working on a program to rejuvenate interest in activities of the university's scholastic and athletic activities.

During his first term of president, Mr. Troutman promoted the largest gathering of Georgia alumni in history, more than 450 attending an organization meeting at the Henry Grady hotel.

The new president is anxious for the support of all Georgia alumni in making his administration a success.

Great Lakes Nine Beats Northwestern

EVANSTON, Ill., April 25.—(P) Great Lakes, with Manager Bob Feller pitching three innings and allowing two hits, trounced Northwestern University today, 12 to 2.

The Bluejackets, playing their first game, scored in all but two of the eight innings and were credited with 14 hits and four boots. Ken Keltner, Cleveland's former third baseman, filled the hot corner for the Tars and scored three runs in four times at bat.

Tech High-Purple Game Postponed

The Tech High-Boys' High baseball game scheduled for yesterday afternoon was postponed on account of wet grounds. The game is now scheduled for Monday afternoon.

Denny Galehouse CUYAHOGA FALLS, Ohio, April 25.—(P)—Denny Galehouse, right-hand pitcher for the St. Louis Browns, said tonight he expected to be inducted into the Army tomorrow at Cleveland.

Handball Finals

CHICAGO, April 25.—(P)—Joe Platak, Chicago, and Frank Coyle, New York City, defending champion, will meet tomorrow afternoon for the National AAU singles handball championship.

Black Crackers, Cubans To Clash

The New York Cuban Stars and the Atlanta Black Crackers will clash tonight at 8:15 o'clock at Ponce de Leon park.

"Hambone" Sims, only pitcher to beat the New York Negro club last year, will probably be on the mound for Atlanta again. Sims edged the Cubans, 2 to 1, in a game in Knoxville last summer.

This will be the second appearance of the Black Crackers here this year, two other scheduled tilts being rained out. A word of around 7,000 is expected. There will be a special section for white fans.

Tech-Navy Trackmen Run Again

Meet Saturday At Grant Field To Be Thriller

The season's outstanding track meet at Georgia Tech's Grant Field is slated to be held Saturday afternoon, starting at 2 o'clock, when the Crackers attempt to avenge a previous licking handed them by the Georgia Navy Pre-flight at Athens.

Coach Norris Dean's crew lost a 70-61 decision to the Preflighters in the first meet of the year. That's a difference of one first place, just about, so Tech will have a chance to get even with the Navy boys this week if one or two boys can improve slightly.

The Preflighters have a strong, well-balanced team. In the previous meet they scored first places in the mile, two mile, 100-yard dash, high hurdles, 880-yard run, 220-yard dash, low hurdles, high jump and broad jump.

Coach Dean has announced he will run Allen Brown in the half-mile Saturday along with Capt. Ray Enders. Enders will also run the 440.

Tech's strongest events are the field events, where "Dutch" Seidman and George Hills are expected to dominate the shot and discus; Donahue the pole vault and maybe Kyker in the javelin. Kyker hurt his arm in the North Carolina meet, but will be back this week.

Field events will begin one-half hour ahead of the running events. The meet is free to the public.

Ten Old Stars Are Named to Hall of Fame

NEW YORK, April 25.—(UP)—Ten stars who were active in major league baseball around the turn of the century tonight were selected for membership in the game's hall of fame at Cooperstown, N. Y.

They were chosen for the shrine of baseball's immortals by the old timers committee which, with the Baseball writers association of America, selects the men whose names are inscribed on plaques and placed in the game's national museum.

Those named were: Roger Bresnahan, the old New York Giant catcher who was considered one of the best receivers in the game.

Dan Brouthers, an outfielder with Detroit.

Fred Clarke, player and manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Jim Collins, third baseman of the Boston Red Sox.

Ed Delahanty, who pitched for Washington and the Philadelphia Phillies.

Hugh Duffy, who played with both Senators.

Mike Kelley, a Boston Red Sox star.

James O'Rourke, a catcher and outfielder with the New York Giants.

Wilbert Robinson, catcher for the old Baltimore Orioles and later manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

They were the first men chosen for the shrine since the old timers committee elected the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis, first commissioner of baseball, and make a total of 38 men who now have been named to the hall of fame.

Twenty-four of them were named by the old timers and other special committees while the other 14 were elected by a vote of the baseball writers. The writers last elected Rogers Hornsby in 1942. In their 1945 ballot they failed to elect any members, Frank Chance, the "peerless leader" of the Chicago Cubs, missing out by seven votes. He received a total of 179 ballots, seven short of the 75 per cent necessary for election.

The old timers committee is made up of Edward G. Barrow, of the New York Yankees; Stephen C. Clark, president of the museum; Connie Mack, of the Philadelphia Athletics; Robert Quinn, of the Boston Braves; Paul S. Kerr, secretary of the museum, and two baseball writers—Sid Mercer, of the New York Journal-American, and Melville Webb, of the Boston Globe. All but Mercer, who is ill, attended today's meeting.

Chandler Favors All-Star Game

By JOHN L. CUTLER, United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, April 25.—(UP)—Sen. Albert B. (Happy) Chandler, Democrat, Kentucky, the new high commissioner of baseball, revealed today that he may go to bat for a major league all-star game this summer if the European war ends soon.

The traditional classic, usually played in July, has been cancelled because of wartime restrictions.

Chandler told the United Press that if V-E Day comes before July the decision to cancel would at least be subject to review.

He said all depends on the circumstances, he said. "But baseball is patriotic and will do nothing that would interfere with the war effort."

KEEP GAME CLEAN

Glowing and happy with the warm congratulations of his senate colleagues, the one-time semi-pro shortstop said he had made no definite decisions yet except that he is determined to keep the game as clean as it was under his predecessor, the late Judge Kenesaw M. Landis.

He said he has asked Leslie O'Connor, Landis' secretary, to stop on at least for the time being. He expects to see O'Connor in Chicago next week. He has not decided whether to maintain his office in Chicago.

Rep. Vito Marcantonio, A. L. New York, announced meanwhile that he will introduce a resolution tomorrow authorizing the Commerce Department to study alleged discrimination in baseball.

There are no Negro players of any of the major league teams. Asked about racial discrimination in organized baseball, Chandler said:

"I have no knowledge of discrimination in fact."

As for the war he intends to rule on the questions that come before him, he used one of his classic senatorial expressions: "I may sometimes be in error, but I'm never in doubt."

As for the Kentucky was brought to the verge of tears with the high tributes of his colleagues. Even the senate page boys joined in the congratulations.

In the closing minutes of the day, feeble, 79-year-old Sen. Hiram W. Johnson, Republican, California, crossed over to the Democratic side and lauded Chandler as "a man of undisputed guts."

Shaking a finger at the blushing, Chandler, he gave him this advice: "Be yourself. Baseball is peculiarly representative of this country. See that it represents you."

Then Johnson continued: "I have observed you from the time you came into this senate. I have watched you. What a boon you are to baseball! Here's to a man of undisputed guts. Here's to you."

Chandler rose. "As long as I live," he said, "I'll never forget these words of approval from one of the greatest men America ever produced."

"I promise you, Sen. Johnson, that I will keep baseball clean."

Chandler walked onto the senate floor this afternoon after a night which Mayflower hotel officials said produced the greatest flood of long-distance telephone calls and telegrams in hotel history.

WE'LL MISS YOU

Sen. William Langer, Republican, North Dakota, was talking about banks when he spotted Chandler. He kept on speaking, but on a new subject.

"I see that the junior senator from Kentucky has just entered the chamber," he said. "I want to be the first to congratulate him. We're going to miss him very much."

Chandler, brick-red, fiddled with a pile of papers on his desk while Langer continued: "We have gotten to love the distinguished senator. And those who don't love him, certainly like him very, very much."

Bank Clearings

Bank clearings yesterday were $25,600,000, the Atlanta Clearing House has announced. The corresponding day last year was a holiday.

Dandruff (according to many authorities) consists of scales of dry or greasy cells which peel off of the scalp. These scales may become mixed with debris of sebum (oil), dirt, and various low forms of bacterial life. When this happens the scalp may become inflamed, irritated, and itchy.

Let Thomas remove these aggravating dandruff flakes and scales from your scalp and you'll find pleasant relief from itch and irritation which they may be causing. You'll find too, that your hair will look better and that your scalp will feel grand, clean, and healthy. A quarter-million clients—20 years of success speak volumes for the merit of Thomas treatment. Come in today for free consultation and advice (in private) and see for yourself how this time-tested method works.

Woman Clerk Writes Own Death Papers

PITTSFIELD, Mass., April 25. (AP)—Massachusetts's first woman town clerk, who wrote out her own death certificate leaving nothing but the date of death to be filled in, died at her Hinsdale home today.

Mrs. Cora Lovell, 74, had been town clerk since 1921. She also served one year as tax collector, leaving office with nothing owed the town.

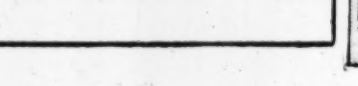

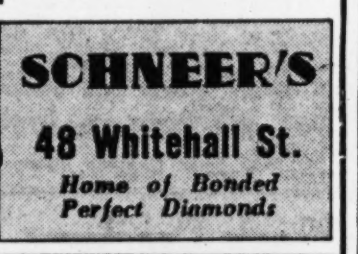

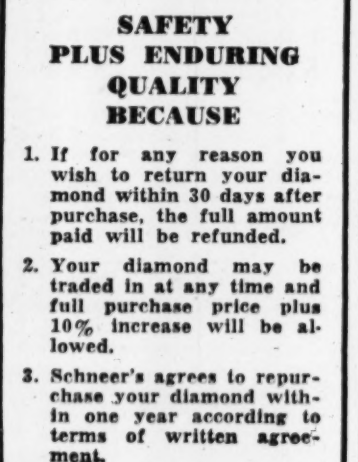

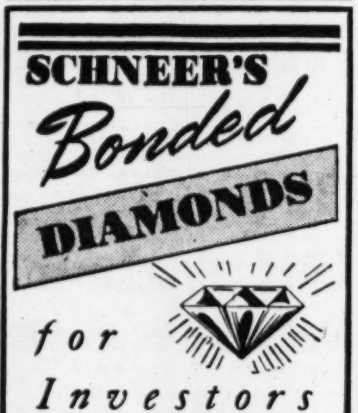

"I parked on doorsteps until I got the money," Mrs. Lovell always explained.

ON THE AIR

By PAUL JONES

Three leading statesmen and three noted commentators will discuss the question, "Can We Build a Lasting Peace Now?" when the Blue network broadcast of American Town Meeting.

MIKE...
The Question-air Man

QUESTION: What radio program keeps you best informed on vital issues of the day?

Mary E. Kane, student: "My vote goes to America's Town Meeting because it gives both sides of the important questions in the news. I have been a Town Meeting fan all through high school."

Jay M. Seale, clerk: "America's Town Meeting keeps me informed, and you can bet I'll be listening this Thursday night. The topic is going to be on the San Francisco Peace Conference—just about the most important topic ever discussed on Town Meeting!"

GRIN AND BEAR IT

By Lichty

"If you had to stand in line to spend it, you'd realize just how unimportant money is, Smedley!"

with the United States Navy, advanced one of the first concrete programs for a United Nations government in a Memorial Day address in 1942.
